Pennsylvania Cattlemen Summer Field Day At McElhaney Farm

HOOKSTOWN (Beaver Co.) — Members of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association met here for their 23rd Annual Summer Field Day at the McElhaney Stock Farm and the Hookstown Fairgrounds on a hot July Saturday.

The event included the 1998 Pa. State Shorthorn Show and the Beaver County Blue Ribbon Preview Show, which were held at the Hookstown Fairground. Back at the farm cattlemen could participate in a variety of tours and workshops including pasture management, water control systems, fencing systems, estrus synchronization, ova transfer, and hoof trimming.

A tour of the Duquesne Light Nuclear Power Plant was offered to interested parties. During the lunch break Mr. Randy K. Hareza, Attorney-at-Law, Baden, spoke on "Electric Fence and Other Potential Legal Liabilities." Dr. Terry Etherton, Head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State, spoke on "Challenges and Opportunities for Pennsylvania Animal Agriculture."

Cattlemen members took part in a Cow-Pie-Bingo contest and continued the workshops during the afternoon. The cow pie ended up in an unclaimed square, so the winners were the Shorthorn youth who received the prize money.

During the evening the guests took part in the Keystone Rib-Eye Steak Dinner and a country hoedown.

Coldsprings Farms To Host Maryland Holstein Picnic

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — The annual Maryland Holstein Picnic will be hosted this year by the Marlin Hoff family at Coldsprings Farms, near New Windsor. This will be the fifth year the state association has held a picnic, and 4-500 people are expected to attend. The date is Saturday, August 8. Starting time is 10:30 a.m. You do not need to be a member of the association to attend the picnic; all are welcome.

The event offers Holstein enthusiasts an opportunity to enjoy a day of fellowship with other breeders. A barbecue lunch will be provided, and there will be farm tours, a cow judging contest, a meeting for the Maryland juniors, and door prizes. Agribusinesses will have a display area set up at the farm. There will also be a calf raffle for the Maryland juniors, of a March "Luke" out of an 88-point "Aerostar." The next dam is an excellent Bell.

Coldsprings Farms is widely recognized as a premier breeder of Holsteins. If you have an interest in visiting a large, successful dairy with a high herd average and a nationally renowned breeding program that has that has sold about a dozen proven bulls to studs over

Hedging, Options, Futures May Spell Survival

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Risk has always been associated with farming. Farmers, interested in reducing that risk, look for ways to ensure a reliable financial future in farming.

For some, hedging, options, and futures may spell survival.

But is it for everyone?

And how does it really work?

These issues were examined in depth during the IX Ag Horizons Conference held in Harrisburg on Tuesday. The day-long conference examined how changing government attitudes are affecting agriculture, and how hedging, options, and futures can be tools to help farmers.

Russ Redding, deputy secretary for the Pa. Dept. of Agriculture, said that government attitudes toward agriculture are changing, not by choice but forced by budget restraints.

"The key to improving prosperity for agriculture is to improve trade," Redding said in response to statistics that show that 96 percent of the the world's population is outside of the United States. Already one-third of the United States's agriculture products are being exported to other countries.

A main focus of the United States government is to reduce trade barriers so that agricultural products can be more freely exported. Steps in this direction have enabled the trade segment to grow faster than any other part of the economy. An example of the government's work to benefit ag is seen from exempting agricultural products from trade embargoes

NE Chicken Parts 1&2

ATLANTA, GA.
JULY 30, 1998

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was of a light and spotty nature. Offerings were irregularly available and sales reported in a much wider range than usual. Demand through most outlets was still disappointing with first of-the-month interset very limited. The market tone was uneasy as a difference of opinion in regards to prices kept most traders in a confused state.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
JULY 29, 1998

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and typical of midweek activity. Seller offerings remained in short supply on the heavier weights; fully adequate to ample on the smaller sizes Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were desirable to light. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent higher at 69 to 83 cents. Trade sentiment remained firm on the 3 pound and up sizes; barely steady to weak on the balance. In the parts complex, volumes and items varied from plant to plant, but supplies were fully sufficient for the light and unaggressive buying interest.

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA
JULY 29, 1998

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were uncha? higher for extra-large and large in parts of the North Central and Northeast regions, and elsewhere prices were unchanged. The market tone was mostly steady. Demand ranged light to good, and was best into resort areas and where scattered features were in progress. Supplies were adequate to available, and heavy eggs were occasionally tight. Breaking stock supplies remained generally adequate from regular sources; light weights were in the longest position, and heavy nest run were occasionally sought. Light type hen offerings continued adequate for full slaughter schedules.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

PCP and LDP are abbreviations that many farmers and the grain industry are getting familiar with and learning how to use. Producers never dreamed of this being a marketing tool when loan rates were established under the Freedom to Farm Bill. Two or three years of good crops, big carryovers and reduced export sales has dropped cash bids down near, and below for wheat, the government loan rates. New contract lows have been established each new trading day. Wheat 1 to 5 cents lower. Corn 1 to 4 cents lower. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents lower. Soybeans 2 to 9 cents lower. Posted County Prices are the rates each county has established as its loan rate; the price the government will give you a loan on your commodity that you may later either buy back and retain ownership or just forfeit the product depending on which way the price trends develop. If the current cash price of your commodity is below the PCP you may apply for a LDP, Loan Deficit Payment. Majority of the counties now have LDP for wheat ranging from 0 to 60 cents, mostly 20-30 cents per bushel. Loan rates for many counties have corn pegged around 1.85 and soybeans 5.40. However, new crop bids by some terminal elevators have corn and 2.15 and soybeans at 5.50. Grain and soybean cash trade slow as owners reluctant to sell at current low bids. Elevators, dealers, processors and exporters reluctant to buy ahead due to large carryover supplies, reduced export sales and good prospects of a bumper crop that could result in further price declines. Storage space will be a real problem this fall. Also, rail and other transportation infrastructure insufficient to handle burdensome supplies. Grains piled on the streets subject to the elements deteriorate rapidly and do not lend to higher prices. The Government could become a large mortgage holder.

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady. Steer calves steady. Heifer calves steady to 2.00 higher. Demand good. Weigh-ups average to mostly full. Quality plain to average, few attractive calves. Feeder cattle in thin to medium flesh. Calves in slightly thin to moderate flesh. High heat and low humidity is playing on like a broken record. Slaughter cows 2.00 higher. Slaughter bulls steady. Demand good for slaughter and country cows. Country buyers fairly aggressive for cows destined for greener pastures north of Oklahoma. Total of 865 cows and bulls sold with 70 percent to packers. Receipts this week 10,180; last week 10,430; last year 12,632. Supply consisted of 74 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 18 percent calves under 600 lbs; 8 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weigthed average weight and price in parenthesis.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

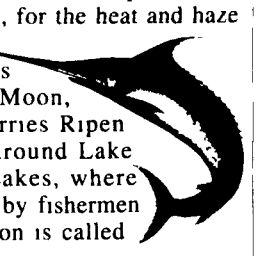
FULL GREEN CORN MOON, AUG. 7.

BY THE SILVERY MOON

What some Native American tribes knew as the Full Green Corn Moon (not to be confused with July's Full Corn Tassel Moon or Ripe Moon), others knew as the Red Moon, for the heat and haze that makes the rising Moon appear reddish Other names included the Woodcutter's Moon, All Elk Call Moon, and Berries Ripen Even in the Night Moon. Around Lake Champlain and the Great Lakes, where large sturgeon can be caught by fishermen this month, this month's Moon is called the Full Sturgeon Moon.



The Moon, her face if red be, Of water speaks she.

– Zuni Indians

TIP OF THE WEEK

ROASTED CORN WITH HERB BUTTER

1 tablespoon chopped fresh herbs (basil, sage, thyme, chives — whatever's fresh!) OR 1 teaspoon powdered chili, paprika, or minced garlic
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter, softened
6 large ears corn, with husks on

Mix herb(s) into softened butter, form into a stick or log, and refrigerate until firm Sprinkle corn husks with water and preheat broiler or grill Roast corn on a baking sheet in the broiler or over the covered grill, turning, until all sides turn black Keep turning and roasting about 5 minutes, until corn kernels are tender Peel back husks, without detaching, and serve with chilled herb butter

Makes 6 servings.

THE OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

None in August should over the land, in December none over the sea.

If the wind be hushed with sudden heat, expect heavy rain.

Lightning in the north in summer is a sign of heat.

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it (Bouvatec Is Available)

For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation The Ca P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix

OPINION

More Mouths To Feed

The problem of getting enough to eat is one of the great problems of the human race. In some countries, such as the United States and the Dominion of Canada, so much food is produced that there is more than enough for everybody. Elsewhere, however, the story is quite different. A large part of the population of Asia never has quite enough to eat. There, millions of people are always hungry. Whenever crops fail, hundreds of thousands of persons actually starve. Famine kills off the weak, the very young, and the poor.

There has been a great increase in the earth's population in the last three centuries. Today, there are more than two billion mouths to be fed. Yet the world's population is still increasing. Each year the number of births is greater than the number of deaths, and so there are more people to feed than ever before.

That is the reason why the farmer is such an important citizen in any nation. His main job is to produce meat, and milk, vegetables, and grains, and many other things which we all need. His crops furnish us with materials from which clothes are made. Agriculture is one of the oldest of all human occupations, and one of the most important.--Science Plans For Tomorrow, published in 1946 by Ginn and Company. Authors: Gerald S. Craig, professor of natural sciences, Teachers College, Columbia University; and John Urban, professor of science, New York State College for Teachers at Buffalo. Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Avoid Over Heating Animals

Many dairy and broiler producers are using tunnel ventilation systems to help keep cows and broilers comfortable on hot days For the system to function best, all barn openings are closed, except at one end of the barn

Large exhaust fans are located at the opposite end from the inlet The barn has been turned into a tunnel All the air is admitted into one end, pulled the full length of the barn at a speed of about 3 to 5 miles per hour and exhausted at the opposite end The air velocity and rapid exchange of air help improve animal comfort, as long as the fans are running.

When the fans stop, for whatever reason, the barn may quickly turn into a hot oven because the only openings are those at the one end and there is almost no air circulation. Thus, it is very important to have a back up system or an alternative ventilation plan to implement in the event of power failure or for times when no one is around the barn

To Scout For Corn Root worm Adults

Corn root worm beetles usually begin emerging about July 4 However, this year they emerged about 10 days early because of the early warm weather, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent

For the corn grower, this is an important time to be scouting corn fields for adult root worm beetles Based on the number of beetles found by the farmer, a good estimate may be made if root worm insecticide should be applied in that field next year Scouting now for next year is a way to determine where to spend pesticide dollars to prevent crop damage next year

The threshold for continuous corn is an average of 2 northern or 1 western adult beetle per plant For first year corn fields, it is an average of 3 northern or 1 5 western adult beetles per plant.

To Practice IPM

Critics of modern agricultural production practices continue to publish misinformation on farming in the United States For example, An Environmental Working Group report claims pesticide use in agriculture is up and EPA is failing to reduce use and protect children

The facts are EPA notes a continued decline in pesticide use on our nation's farms since topping out in 1979 Over the 1979-1995 period, use of insecticides to protect the nation's fruit and vegetables has dropped more than 50 per cent spurred by the adaptation by farmers of Integrated Pest Management (IPM)

In order to challenge these critics in the public policy arena, it is important farmers adapt and practice best management practices, IPM, develop and file nutrient management plans, etc By showing we are sensitive to consumer concerns and are developing appropriate actions, we will be able to respond to our critics Otherwise, our critics will have their views adopted The future of farming will be based on our actions. So take the time and scout your fields and use pesticides only when you need them

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE BOTTOM LINE
August 2, 1998

Background Scripture:
Proverbs 8
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 1:1-6

In the Book of Proverbs, there are essentially two voices that speak. Sometimes it is the voice of the "wise man. Sometimes it is the voice of "wisdom" personified as a woman.

Thus in Proverbs 8, it is the winsome woman who is speaking wherever she finds people to listen: On the heights beside the way, in the paths she takes her stand; beside the gates in front of the town, at the entrance of the portals she cries aloud..." (8:2,3).

The writer tells us a lot in these few lines. Some people then believed—as some do today—that wisdom is really an exclusive attainment of the few, that it is not intended to be possessed by all In sharp contrast, however, wisdom proclaims her message, not in a secluded spot where only a select few will hear, but at the very crossroads where all may hear and receive the message. "To you, O men, I call, and my cry is to the sons of men" (8:4). Using the term "sons of men" indicates that her call is not only to the people of Israel, but all humanity. The reception to that call may be limited, but the call is not

This wisdom is straight forward, never devious: "All the words of my mouth are righteous; there is nothing twisted or crooked in them." That is the gap between information or learning and wisdom. Information may often be used for devious purposes and learning may well be perverted to selfish ends, but true wisdom cannot be perverted

COSMIC WISDOM

Wisdom goes on to poetically proclaim her unique relationship with God; "The Lord created me at the beginning of His work, the first of His acts of old" (8:22) Before the cosmic depths existed, before there were mountains, hills, fields, heavens or even dust, wisdom existed

Upon reading Proverbs 8 some may become alarmed because it may seem that wisdom purports to have been another divine being present with God at the creation. Some Biblical scholars believe that the Canaanites worshiped a goddess of wisdom. But the writer of Proverbs sees that, what the Canaanites worshiped as a goddess, was simply an attribute of the one God.

We come now to the most difficult words of wisdom in this chapter, "Take my instruction instead of silver, and knowledge rather than choice gold; for wisdom is better than jewels, and all that you may desire cannot compare with her" (8:10,11). What is difficult about these words? Surely we all agree with them!

LIP-SERVICE

I don't think so. Without a doubt, we give lip service to them. But most of us—myself included—live in a way that indicates that money and material things are the basis of our society. Personal, public and national policies seem to be determined by just one thing: money. What is the bottom line when we attempt to determine that value of something? Money value as determined by price or profit.

Some time ago I overheard a man say that he had recently been responsible for a "wholesale housecleaning" in the church he attends and is a member of the governing board. Referring to some older members of the church staff, he said "We're going to be saving a lot of money now that we're rid of that deadwood!" I couldn't help wondering whether he ever considered the human as well as monetary values.

I believe in enterprise and profit, but not to the exclusion of wisdom and compassion. I believe in asking if something is "cost effective," but not at the price of human values. Indeed, I believe capitalism and free enterprise can be extolled only when they are guided by human conscience. The bottom line is not silver, gold, jewels or anything material: it is the wisdom that recognizes the sovereignty of a God who commands love, not profit.

RAXIL®

The breakthrough seed treatment for small grains that delivers outstanding performance. And unbeatable value.

When you consider performance and price, you'll see why new Raxil flowable fungicide is your best value in seed treatments for small grains.

The unique new chemistry of Raxil helps wheat, barley and oats start healthier and yield better. It provides a new level of protection against smuts, bunts, soilborne Fusarium and other diseases. Yet Raxil is priced comparably to older systemic fungicides currently in use, and costs less than other new seed treatments for small grains.

Take advantage of the breakthrough chemistry that's tough on early season diseases and easy on the bottom line. Ask your conditioner or seed supplier for seed treated with Raxil. From the seed treatment leaders at Gustafson.

What Are PA's New Homestead And Farmstead Exclusions?

Nancy Roberts DePoe, Montour County agent,

DANVILLE (Montour Co) - This past November, Pennsylvania voters approved a change in the Commonwealth's constitution to allow a method of real property tax relief, called (at that time) a homestead exemption A home stead exemption allows for preferential treatment of homeowners under the real property tax

In May the PA Legislature passed the Homestead Property Exclusion Program Act (Act 50 of 1998) In addition to changing the word "exemption" to "exclusion", Act 50 has provided the definitions and rules needed by school districts, counties, and municipalities (townships, boroughs, and cities) to implement the homestead exclusion Homestead exclusions, and a similar exclusion for farm properties, called the farmstead exclusion, can now be made

Homestead and farmstead exclusions can be implemented under Act 50 in a taxing jurisdiction (school district, county, or municipality) without changing the existing local tax structure as long as they pay for it without increasing real property taxes The law also provides a mechanism for school districts to change their local tax structure by shifting more to an earned income tax, in exchange for eliminating several nuisance taxes (the per capita, occupation, and occupational privilege taxes) and reducing the real property tax

The homestead exclusion is a way to target real property tax relief to homeowners who have their permanent residence in the taxing jurisdiction It reduces the assessed values of homestead properties, reducing the property tax on these homes The homestead exclusion provides the same dollar tax reduction to all eligible properties in the taxing jurisdiction, including houses on farms, condominiums, single family homes, and other places of permanent residence owned by the occupant A "homestead" property is a dwelling used by an owner as his or her permanent home You may have only one permanent home at a given time, and homestead properties may not include rental units, vacation homes, or camps

The farmstead exclusion is a method of real property tax relief for farmers It allows a mechanism for tax relief to farmers on the taxes they pay on farm buildings (other than the farm house itself, which is covered under the homestead exclusion), so long as at least one of the farm owners lives on the farm This is in addition to other existing real property tax relief programs, such as Act 319 "The Clean and Green" program which reduces the assessed value of farmland. If a taxing jurisdiction offers the homestead exclusion it must, by law, offer the farmstead exclusion as well. Act 50 also states that the farmstead exclusion rate will be set by the local governing body, and cannot exceed the amount of the homestead exclusion

A "farmstead" property is defined as "all buildings and structures on a farm of ten (10) contiguous acres or more in size that are used primarily for agricultural purposes" (such as housing animals, or storing supplies, production, or machinery). The farmstead exclusion would be applied to these "farm" buildings that are not already exempt from real property taxation under other laws. By requiring that the owner live on the farm, farms that are owned and operated by absentee owners will not be eligible for the farmstead exclusion

Penn State Cooperative Extension is preparing an educational phamplet on the homestead and farmstead exclusions. If you would like more information concerning Act 50 please call your county's Cooperative Extension Office

HACCP Workshops

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — One-day workshops to increase understanding of the issues associated with HACCP in slaughter plants and potential impact on the farm will be held across the U.S. during the month of August.

The food safety workshops, "Surviving in a HACCP World," will be held Aug. 25 in Columbus, Ohio; Aug. 26 in Omaha, Neb. and Aug. 27 in Denver, Colo.

The one-day workshops will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m.

The Livestock Conservation Institute (LCI), an organization representing the food animal industry, is facilitating these workshops.

Contact the LCI Office at (502) 782-9798 or visit LCI's website at www.lcionline.org for more information or to register for the workshops.

Safe Lifting And Back Strain

Dr. Dennis Murphy
Professor of Agricultural and Biological Engineering
Penn State University

Back-breaking days filled with strenuous lifting are all but history in the poultry industry. Most of this work is now performed by forklifts, skid steers, conveyor belts and automated feeding systems. But instances do occur, however infrequently, when workers need to physically lift heavy loads in the poultry house. That is why it's a good idea for everyone involved to familiarize themselves with "safe" lifting techniques to prevent back strain and absenteeism caused by back injury.

Because lifting isn't a regular part of the job, poultry workers can be more susceptible to muscle strain and overexertion when lifting is necessary Often they are also either unfamiliar with proper lifting techniques, or simply lift and move items the quickest way possible The proper method of lifting objects—what's known as the "safe" lift—is to bend at your knees, and, holding the load firmly to your body, lift with your legs, not your back

There are other times when using the safe lifting technique is impossible because the object is either. located on a shelf or platform above you, too bulky, awkwardly shaped, or in a hopper or a crate on the floor. Following are a few suggestions for lifting items in these kinds of situations

Attempting to lift an object that is on a shelf or platform above your upper torso requires that you use a step ladder or other stable base to raise yourself so you can hug the object to your chest as you descend the ladder. Use caution not to lift items weighing more than around 30 pounds in this manner If it is heavier than this, get someone to help you lower the item to the ground.

If an object is light enough to lift safely, but it is too large or bulky to see over as you carry it, get a co-worker to help you, or use a cart or wheelbarrow to move it. Even the safest work area can be dangerous if your vision is obstructed.

Long items, such as boards, poles, tubes or pole can be awkward to carry as well. When lifting and carrying these items, support it on your shoulder instead of holding close to your body Angle the front end slightly upwards as you carry it. Again, get a coworker to help you if it is too heavy or long If you have a helper, make sure that both of you carry the load on the same shoulder, and stay "in step" while walking so you don't trip over each other's feet

Lifting objects from inside a hopper, crate or other storage areas on the floor/can often cause muscle strain because it's not possible to perform a correct "safe" lift When you have to perform a lift like this, stand with your feet about 18 inches apart, and bend at the hip, not the waist, to lower yourself down to the object. (This is the same motion as lowering yourself into a chair.) Pull the object tightly to your body and slowly stand using your leg and hip muscles to lift the load. If you can, try to rest your knees against the side of the crate for leverage and support

Perform the "safe" lift, or one of these variations, whenever you need to lift items during your work. Never underestimate an object's weight by lifting with your back simply because it's quicker and easier to bend at your waist than your knees. And take the time to get a coworker to help you lift large or awkward objects. A few seconds saved today may take a few months to heal tomorrow.

Pennsylvania DHIA Names Board, Officers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) – The reorganization of the Board of Directors of PA DHIA resulted in Norm Hershey from Lancaster County being elected President Dale Hoover from Lebanon County elected Vice President, Frank Orner from Clearfield elected Secretary, John Brodzina from Huntington County elected Treasurer, and John Castrogiovanni from Susquehanna County elected Director at Large to the Executive Committee Neal McCulloch from Cumberland County submitted his resignation as Director of District 6 due to the sale of his herd The Delegates from Fulton, Franklin, Cumberland, and Adams County will elect a new director at a later date

Recently the Board reviewed our Strategic Long Range Plan The Board reviews the plan every six months to make adjustments due to changing times Presently PA DHIA is partnering with two artificial breeding cooperatives to provide field service for both artificial insemination and milk testing, and PA DHIA has developed a new Owner Sampler program for DHIA and AI technicians Partnering is also occurring with three milk cooperatives to share truck routes and laboratories PA DHIA has developed a new Owner Sampler program for DHIA and AI technicians Partnering is also occurring with three milk cooperatives to share truck routes and laboratories. PA DHIA is partnering with Penn State, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, USDA Foreign Agricultural Services, and VOCA to provide farm management services and technology to Ukraine, Poland, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania.

The cooperative is looking for members who are good crop and dairy managers and can get away from their farms for 2 weeks to 2 months These members do not need to speak a foreign language, however they must be able to communicate their skills to other farmers. PA DHIA, through our partnering efforts mentioned above the host governments will pay expenses abroad and a per diem to available PA DHIA members who wish to serve and are selected. A flyer will appear in your herd management reports over the next six weeks. If you are interested, please fill out the bottom of the flyer and send it to our office An application form will then be mailed to you

The Board received reports about the recent trips to Poland and Ukraine by Tom Smith and Dave Slusser, respectively These trips were funded by VOCA with USAD funds PA DHIA has been approved for Ag Link funds for use in development of international farm management services and DHIA services. Our international service is designed to provide extra income to the association, our members, and a better future for all parties

George Cudoc has been hired by PA DHIA to provide consultant services to members and their consultants in use of PH DHIA information for more profitable milk production George will conduct meetings for members and consultants, and man a one-day a week hotline to advise people on their DHIA report use For a fee, he will provide on-farm service with members and their consultants George has been the manager of Marbuger Dairy in Butler County for 20 years He has done extensive work with the herd using DHIA information and MUN His experience and knowledge will now be available to our members.

The next board meeting will be held at the University of Pennsylvania New Bolton Center. Beside the usual board business, their will be a tour of New Bolton's facilities and a report by Dr. Jim Ferguson on New Bolton's joints efforts with PA DHIA.

that are enforced upon non-ag exports to such countries as India.

Trade will affect markets at home and offers a more agressive stance for farmers to become involved in futures marketing.

While the government is pulling out of price supports, it is offering support in transition (an optional pilot program is available in which the USDA through a government subsidy pays 80 percent of costs for producers to participate in the futures market).

"Success in farming depends on the ability and willingness to adapt," Redding said of changing times.

Explaining the fundamentals of the futures markets were Eric Maine of the New York Board of Trade, Coffee, Sugar, and Cocoa Exchange Division and Dr. James Dunn, Penn State ag economics professor.

Maine gave the perspective of futures (the buying and selling of contracts) from the floor of the New York Board of Exchange. He said that the company foresees the dairy pit becoming as busy as the Coffee, Sugar & Cocoa Exchange. Milk is a commodity that is crucial and has the potential for investors to make a profit from rising prices as supply meets demand head on, Maine said.

Businesses that need milk don't want to bother with flunctuating dairy prices but want to lock in prices so that they can more effectively calculate a business plan.

Farmers can take advantage of this if they calculate their costs and lock in at a price that covers expenses. Although milk prices may rise higher by the time the farmer is ready to sell the milk, at least, he isn't suffering a loss. If the market drops, he makes a higher profit.

Over a long period, a farmer who uses the market may end up with the same amount of money as the farmer who doesn't. The advantage is that locking into the futures market guarantees a more consistent income rather than the highs and lows that cause cash flow problems.

Dunn explained in lay language the many terms associated with the futures markets.

The most often used terms and their definitions are some of the following:

Futures — A uniform contract for future delivery, in which everything is specified but the price; quantity, quality, delivery time, delivery place, penalties, and premiums.

Options — The right, but not the obligation, to either make or take future delivery of a commodity. The advantages of options is protection against lower prices (for someone buying a put), while allowing the farmer to receive high prices if they occur. The disadvantage is that higher costs are exacted for protection than those for futures.

Puts — The option to sell a futures contract during a fixed time period for a fixed price.

Calls — The option to buy a futures contract during a fixed time period for a fixed price. Useful to protect a hog farmer against higher corn prices.

Basis — The difference between contract price and your local price at the time you expect to close contract. According to Dunn, generally grain prices in Pennsylvania are 15 cent a bushel higher than in Chicago, where the prices are set.

Hedging — Using the futures market to protect yourself from price risk in the cash market. Hedging locks in today's prices for tomorrow's needs.

Speculation — Using the futures market to try to make money by anticipating price moves on the commodity. Because of the margin, you can control several times as much grain as you could otherwise, allowing for big gains or losses.

Dunn took conference participants through a worksheet, as an example, to show how hedging can protect the future of corn.

Hedging can reduce risk if you grow corn and have a crop in the field, he said. You could sell a futures contract and lock in a post-harvest price. The profit or loss on the futures contract should offset the profit or loss due to local price changes.

One of the most used terms in milk futures and options is BFP an abbreviation for basic formula price. The BFP is government-calculated and based on the minimum price for Class III milk, before premiums.

Understanding the futures market is an ongoing process and not one that should be undertaken lightly with only a one-day workshop, Dunn said.

"Despite what anyone tells you, no one knows where the market is going," Dunn said.

Another word for speculation, he said, is "gambling," because you're betting money on what you think the market will be doing. Of the millions of contracts made only two percent are actually delivered, but all contracts affect trading prices.

On the positivie side, Dunn sees using the futures market as a good way for farmers to protect their profits. Not only can they lock in prices for crops growing in the field, but according to one participant, "I get 5 cents more a bushel for my corn just because the buyer knows I am aware of prices."

An excellent way to learn more about the futures market without risking finances is to become involved in a marketing club.

John Berry, Lehigh extension agent, and Ricky Butz, executive loan officer for Keystone Farm Credit, told how a group of farmers formed the Lehigh Valley Grain Marketing Club and how they use scenarios to sharpen skills to prepare eventually for using the market.

"We learn how to come up with the best marketing strategy to get the best prices," Berry said.

Marketing clubs offer practical skills and emotional support in learning the ins and outs of using futures marketing to the best advantage. One time club members combined resoures to place an order, which offered the advantage of spreading the risk and learning the market.

The purpose of the Ag Horizons conferences is to teach educators, such as extension agents and teachers, about ag issues.

"Educators who can impact the classroom and decision making must learn to deal with markets during this crucial time," said Charles Suloff, who was part of the planning committee.

The conference was sponsored by the Southeastern Regional Council of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives and Penn State's Cooperative Business Education and Research Program.

There are various types of personal and business planning For the individual, this may include planning for retirement or your children's education. As business managers (yes, farm operations are businesses), there are additional types of planning which include business, contingency and succession.

The question many of us have is whether planning is beneficial If we've thought about planning, too many times the "yes, buts" have raised their ugly heads. Most of you have either heard them or used them yourself. Yes, but I don't have time Yes, but there is no way I can know what will happen tomorrow, much less six months from now Yes, but I don't know how to do that planning stuff. Yes, but there are other items we must buy today and therefore don't have the money to save. The list goes on.

It was George Hewell who said "Those who fail to plan, plan to fail". I've also heard it said that if you don't know where you want to go, any road will take you there. My suggestion is that if you do not plan, most of your time will be spent dealing with crisis management or completing insignificant tasks while ignoring the important issues. Also, if planning is not part of your personal and business life, a few questions quickly come to mind What goals do you and your family have? If you have goals, how do you plan to achieve them? How do you plan to pay for your children's education? How will you fund retirement, if you'll even be able to retire? How will you pass the farm on to the next generation? How will you develop your successor's management skills? How will you determine if you can afford to expand your operation?

Any type of planning requires a significant commitment from all those involved in the process. It requires communication and honesty from all participants. Tough questions need to be asked and answered Finally, planning is an on-going process and not a once and done event.

More Tobacco Meetings Set For Farmers Who Need Marketing Help

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — The effort to bring Pennsylvania tobacco growers together to market their crop is continuing this week as two more informational meetings have been announced by Jane Balmer, president of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau. The first meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, August 5, at the Martindale Fire Hall, located just of Route 322 between Ephrata and New Holland.

The next evening, August 6, a meeting will be held at Paradise Memorial Park on Londendale Ave. just north of Rt. 30 at the Leamon Place railroad bridge. Starting times for both meetings are 8 p.m.

These meetings are a continuation of a series of meetings that have been held to inform growers what options they may have in light of the present situation. Because much of the 1997 crop is still unsold and prospects for the 1998 crop now in the fields is unclear, Balmer is leading the effort to bring growers together.

Last Tuesday evening nearly 200 farmers gathered for such a meeting at the Paradise Tobacco Auction Barn. Lisa Eddington, managing director of the National Tobacco Council from Holly Springs, North Carolina, presented information on how local growers could create a growers association for greater Lancaster County. The Lancaster County Farm Bureau is leading the effort to organize this Pennsylvania Growers Association in order to have local control of tobacco prices, better manage trading practices, and keep farmers better informed of the current issues related to their tobacco crop and its related profit centers.

Other officials who have given support to this effort are Gerry Ely, cooperative business specialist from the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Charles Dull, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, director of commodity programs, and Robert Anderson of the Lancaster County extension service.

As the lawsuits, tobacco tax issues, and settlements are on- going, so are the opportunities for products and services that are generated as profit centers from tobacco growers. It is with this in mind that growers should attend one or more of these meetings, and they should also watch for additional meetings in their locality.

Fuls Family Sweeps Lebanon Beef Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Before he displayed the Lebanon Area Fair Beef Show supreme market champion, Justin Fuls suspected he had the winner by a hair.

Actually by a lot of hair.

When the champion, an Angus-Maine Anjou crossbred named "Bandit" was only a calf, Justin liked how the calf looked "thick and pretty," he said. "At that time, it had a lot of hair on it," he said. "The hair was thick and long."

Justin also knew a lot about the sire, and suspected the calf could potentially take home the trophy.

Justin, 15, son of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland, is in the 10th grade at Conrad Weiser. His steer, Bandit, was the 1,318-pound winner of the heavyweight division at the market show Tuesday evening at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Bandit, sired by The Witch Doctor out of a crossbred dam, was purchased from Beth and Paul Wingard, Shippenville. Justin said he plans to show additional steers at several jackpot shows and at the Farm show. He won championship in the past at the fair.

Justin's sister Heather showed "Cosmo," a 1,190-pound Angus-Maine Anjou crossbred from the medium weight division to reserve champion.

Heather, 18, is a 1998 graduate of Conrad Weiser High School. She is in her freshman year at Penn State, studying animal science with an emphasis on beef production.

She picked Cosmos out as a calf. "He was little and no one thought he was any good," she said. "I took the chance."

Heather noted that, as a calf, like Justin's steer, it had "a lot of hair. It was very pretty, very stylish," she said.

Both Justin and Heather said the names for the steers just "came to them."

Heather had a banner day, picking up supreme champion heifer with her Angus summer yearling purebred, Weaverland Senorita Cuba (S: GAR-Precision 1680, D: Weaverland Senorita Havanah) from Larry Weaver, Weaverland Farm, New Holland. This is the first time Heather purchased a heifer from Weaverland Farm and her first beef champion at Lebanon Area Fair.

Show judge Brian Hrutkay, Bentleyville, Washington County, said the Angus heifer, a summer yearling, was an "extremely long-bodied, upheaded, showy type of female."

There were 35 contestants and about 30 market steers at the show.

Wilkom To Berks County: State Young Farmer Conference

BERNVILLE (Berks Co.) – Wilkom to Berks County was the greeting proclaimed to all those who attended the 1998 State Young Farmer Tour and Banquet. Hosted by the Tulpehocken Adult Young Farmer Chapter, New Schaefferstown Road, Bernville.

State officers kicked off the conference with an executive committee meeting called to order by President David Groff.

A luncheon, at the Tulpehocken Jr. Sr High school, featuring rib-eye steak sandwiches, preceded the Thursday afternoon educational tours.

Participants had the opportunity to select from two tour options on day one of the event. Tour A featured agribusinesses including Ridgidply Rafters, Inc , Farmer Boy Ag Systems and Dutch Valley Food Distributors. A family run business, Ridgidply Rafters, Inc., which began over 40 years ago, with the fabrication of flue-laminated rafters in the basement of the family home Today, the company employs more than 110 people and operates a 175,000 square foot manufacturing facilities located on 46 acres of land The facility includes a glulaminating plant specializing in the production of beams, posts, arches and heavy timber trusses Wood roof and floor trusses are produced in an additional plant Ridgidly Rafters also sells steel, roofing, siding, and other construction products They have their own fleet of trucks with cranes for truss setting and unloading materials

Farmer Boy Ag Systems, Inc a swine and poultry facility construction company currently builds swine and poultry facilities Founded by Leon G. Hoover in 1979, to provide swine equipment to local producers and later "turn-key" type systems. As this time, Dale Martin, Dean Weaver and Leonard Martin own the marketing rights to this Eastern region The company is currently building swine and poultry facilities in Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, at a rate of 200 buildings per year

Dutch Valley Food Distributing delivers to 24 states with its own trucks providing quality bulk merchandise with top quality service Servicing large and small businesses, bakeries, supermarkets, churches and co-ops Their mission and philosophy statement is as follows The mission of Dutch Valley is to glorify God by serving Him and carrying out His plan· By pursuing the highest standard and respect of life, integrity, and morality. By providing a place of employment and personal growth for each of our employees. By building a strong corporate organization that will provide consistent leadership, development, and growth. We, the Dutch Valley Management, believe that success of any organization depends on how it serves human needs through the combined efforts of people Our company must provide its customers with quality products and services on a consistent basis.

Tour B featured the diversity of production agriculture with a view of Mor-Farms, DA-JAC Lumber Inc and Johnson Farms

Ralph and Crystal Moyer own and operate, More-Dale Farms One full-time employee, Richard Hershey, helps with all aspects of the operation

Their 105 Registered Holsteins average over 24,000 pounds of milk, marketed through Land 'O Lakes. They are housed in free stalls and milked in a double six herringbone parlor equipped with Germania detachers. Replacement heifers are started in an environmentally controlled calf barn, then moved to group bedded pack pens before reaching the slatted floor mono slope heifer barn at 4 months of age, where they are raised till being moved to the dry cow facility 6 weeks pre-freshening. A recent renovation, the removal to the siding off the northwest side of the dry cow facilities and its replacement with chicken wire and curtains to provide for more adequate ventilation was pointed out by Ralph 300 acres is cropped, 128 is owned with the remaining rented from Ralph's parents. Alfalfa, corn and soybeans are grown. Substantial time was spent reviewing the feeding and storage facilities which are under roof.

DA-JAC Lumber Inc. was started in 1955. Today it produces lumber for the furniture market, railroad ties, and ballet cants. Tom Andreas, a lumber grader demonstrated and spoke to the group about lumber value.

Johnson Farms owned and operated by Arthur and Elaine Johnson, grows Christmas trees including Douglas Fir, Concolor Fir, Balsian Fir, White Pine, Colorado Blue Spruce, Canaan Fir, and a limited number of Norway Spruce The first trees were planted about ten years ago on 65 acres. Trees are wholesaled and retailed. They are cut and balled as was demonstrated. A wreath business is conducted in November and December. Wreath are made in Maine with some being made locally. The tour hosts demonstrated the construction of a double and single sided wreath for those observing.

In spring, bedding plants, geraniums, and perennials are raised and sold through the greenhouse.

During the summer, vegetables and flower bunches are marketed on a self-serve basis. Pumpkins and mums are sold in the fall.

The Lantern Lodge, Myerstown, provided the setting for a social hour and banquet. Lebanon and Berks County's Dairy Princess' Heidi Finicle and Alicia Gross served milk punch as guests enjoyed cheese, bologna and fresh fruit.

Donald Daub, President of the Tulpehocken organization, served as M.C. for the banquet which included commodities of Filet Mignon and Loin of Pork. Scavenger Hunt teams turned in the years, you might want to attend this picnic. Marlin and Kathy Hoff, along with their sons Ian and Matt, and Matt's wife, Debbie, have graciously opened their farm up for tours during the early part of the day, and tour leaders will be on hand to take visitors around to see the operation up-close.

Marlin Hoff has contributed a great deal to the Holstein breed both through his breeding program and through his involvement with the breed Association. He has been classifying cows since 1957. His involvement with the Holstein Association has in the past led him to hold the presidency of the organization at both the county and state levels, and he was general chairman of the convention when Maryland hosted the national convention in Baltimore in the early 1980s. In 1989 he was elected to the National Board, where he served an 8-year term that just recently ended. He is an honorary member of the Board of the state Association.

The Hoffs' operation is unique because although they are relatively quite large for a dairy in this area, they have consistently maintained the kind of quality among their animals that could easily be sacrificed for sheer cow numbers. Mr. Hoff says maintaining the balance between quality and herd size is a challenge. "But we've managed to maintain pretty good quality even though the larger you get, the more difficult that becomes," he said. The farm's numbers speak for themselves in black and white that it is a challenge he is able to meet.

Mr. Hoff and his family have grown the herd of 80 cows and 80 heifers he purchased from his father in 1963 into an operation that rivals many in terms of numbers of cows and quality of cows milked. With a herd of 670, with 570 milking right now, the farm's average is 24,128 pounds of milk, 898 of fat, and 769 of protein.

"From the beginning I had registered cows," he said, "and even though my herd has grown, we're still 90 percent registered." The grade cows and lower end registered cows are used primarily as recipients for the 200 or more embryos that Coldsprings Farms puts in each year. Approximately 40 cows are currently classified as excellent, and another 120 are classified very good, according to Mr. Hoff.

The herd expansion basically took place in 5 steps over the years, with each jump in cow numbers pretty much corresponding to the addition of a building. It starting with a doubling of the herd to 180 in 1966 when the Hoffs added a loading barn, and wound up at the current herd size with the building 3 years ago of a 36,000-square-foot barn. "And basically, we don't plan to get any bigger, at least at this time," explained Mr. Hoff.

Cows are milked starting at 12:30, and it takes about 5 and ½ hours to get the herd through the double 20 parallel parlor. There are 6 groups of cows. "We have a rotation that we milk in, and the groups are numbered according to the way they're milked," explained Mr. Hoff. Group 1 is the fresh cows, and there are about 40 of them. Group 2 is the special cows, consisting of about 80-90 head. Group 3 is a group of about 140 2-year-olds. Group 4 is the high lot, with 164 head. Group 5 is the low lot, and it ranges from 120-150 head. The last group, group 6, is the sick lot. Although Mr. Hoff says he likes to have 0 in that group, he says realistically it ranges from 10-15 head. There are also 2 other groups: group 7 is the springer lot, which varies from 15-55 head, and group 8 are the dry cows, housed at another farm, that range from 20-80 head. Milk is picked up daily from a 5,000-gallon and a 1,500-gallon tank.

The herd is fed a TMR consisting of corn silage, haylage, alfalfa hay, distiller's grains, corn, barley, roasted soybeans, and minerals. "We basically raise all our own roughage and a fair amount of grain" on the farm's approximately 2,300 tillable acres, said Mr. Hoff, "I guess our goal is just basically to make sure we have enough roughage."

All manure is handled as a liquid. "We store it and haul it," said Mr. Hoff. They have the capacity to hold 2 million gallons. In a normal situation, that will last about 6 months. A stream runs through the farm, and the Hoffs have made a big effort to keep any runoff out of it by piping the stream through. "We have worked real hard at trying to keep anything from getting into the water supply," explained Mr. Hoff.

Another facet of the Hoffs' operation is the bulls. "I've probably put at least 80 bulls into A.I.," estimates Mr. Hoff, "And probably a dozen to 15 have been well proven bulls that wound up having a lot of daughters."

Guernsey Ice Cream Social Cool Summer Tradition

MARSHA ANN CHESS
Mercer Co. Correspondent

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Three hundred dozen eggs, nearly a ton of sugar, gallons and gallons of cream and milk, not to mention 1,000 pounds of strawberries, and cases of chocolate sauce, what kind of recipe is this? At the Northwestern Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association's annual Guernsey Ice Cream Social, this is the recipe for fun and enough ice cream to serve between 3,000 and 5,000 people all they can eat complete with strawberries and/or chocolate syrup on top.

The 1998 Social was a hit with approximately 3,200 visitors enjoying the cool summertime treat, meeting dairy royalty, and spending time with family and friends. Longtime visitors reminisced about days gone by and children got to meet a Guernsey calf.

The ticket line for the event, which is held at the Mercer County 4-H Park near Mercer, was often hundreds deep. Some people waited in line nearly a hour, but when they got to the end of the line servers armed with garden trowels and tables full of cake were ready and willing to make sure no one went away hungry.

The Guernsey Ice Cream Social started back in the early 1950s as a social event for the Northwest Pa. Guernsey Breeders, but it was soon opened to the public and grew into a successful fund raiser. Over the years it has grown and changed, according to current chairperson Bill Cannon. The event outgrew the facilities at Brandy Springs Park, Mercer, in the '60s and was moved to the Mercer County 4-H Park at that time.

Money raised at the Ice Cream Social is used to fund Guernsey Youth activities including gifts for every child who shows a Guernsey in the Northwest District and helping with travel expenses for district and state shows. The money is also used to subsidize the cost of the banquet at the NWPGBA annual meeting. Finally, donations are made to the Mercer County 4-H Development Committee, Mercer and Crawford County Dairy Princesses, and the local Jaycees.

The ice cream mix is made by members of the NWPGBA at their annual mixing day and frozen by a local ice cream maker. Although the sight has moved many times over the years as family run dairies closed down, companies changed hands, and the social grew. Currently, the mix is made at Richard Fisher's in Portersville and the Ice Cream is Frozen at Jam's Ice Cream in New Castle.

Most of the milk is donated by NWPGBA members and all labor is voluntary. The Mercer County 4-H members and leaders and Northwest Guernsey Breeders serve the ice cream and cake and wait tables and the Jaycees help with parking.

"I don't think there is anything like this in the state," says Cannon. Who has been actively involved over the years. At one point the ice cream was mixed at a small processing plant at his farm and he has been actively involved in perfecting the secret recipe.

"You have to have a good product to succeed," says Cannon, "the hardest part is getting started, but once you do word of mouth soon spreads."

The Guernsey Ice Cream Social is in many way a dream come true for kids young and not so young, after all it's one of the few places you can get all the ice cream you want and some people even just consider it supper. "I go every year," says Diane Brest, "I think it's just the idea of getting all the ice cream you can eat for just $4."

Waiting in line for a cool treat on a perfect July evening becomes a social event.

Now that's a scope of Ice Cream, on the trowel of one of the many volunteers who help make the Guernsey Ice Cream Social a success. The Guernsey Breeders use garden trowels because regular ice cream scopes can't take the strain.

State Preservation Board Approves 12 Farms

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently announced that the Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved easement purchases for 12 farms across the Commonwealth, including the first farm approved in Sullivan County.

"The addition of these farms demonstrates that Gov. Tom Ridge's commitment to the future of the agricultural tradition in Pennsylvania is steadfast and strong," said Hayes, who chairs the board.

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board is responsible for the oversight of the state Farmland Preservation Program.

The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements, to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

Including one county-owned easement accepted, the Farmland Preservation Program has protected 950 farms in 40 counties encompassing 120,486 acres.

The 12 properties, including owner, township, acreage and purchase cost, include:

In Berks County: David and Lisa Manbeck, Heidelberg Township, 73 acres, $145,520; Dennis and Margaret Manbeck, Heidelberg Township, 117 acres, $233,880.

In Blair County: Harry I. Albright, Tyrone Township, 106 acres, $74,267.

In Bucks County: Charles W. Livezey Jr., Buckingham Township, 71 acres, $650,900.

Butler County: Donald K. and David K. Thompson, Buffalo Township, 95 acres, $189,540.

Centre County: Murry C. McJunking, Spring Township, 112 acres, $123,014.

Lancaster County: Lloyd M. and Marlene N. Reiff, Warwick Township, 56 acres, $250,970.

Montour County: Albert R. and Kathryn Heebner, Limestone Township, 50 acres, $35,000.

Sullivan County: Harvey and Mary Vough, Forks Township, 55 acres, $49,520.

Westmoreland County: Heinnickle Farms Inc., Hempfield Township, 500 acres, $1,237,596.

York County: A. Joseph and Phyllis K. Garner, Washington Township, 282 acres, $329,416.

On Friday, the second day of tours the group encroached on Skyline Acres (featured recently on publications), Mountain Springs Camping Resort, Inc. and Roadside America.

Skyline Acres recently constructed a new 450 dairy cow facility. Located near Shartlesville. It is operated by Ray and Glenna Hix, John, Donna, Jennifer, Michael, and Mark Hix and Terry, Kim, Derrick and Laura Hix. A handout outlining the steps taken by the family prior to beginning construction and a breakdown of individuals responsibilities within the operation was provided by Clyde Myers, County Agent.

Mountain Springs Camping Resort a family entertainment oriented camping ground. It has a large outdoor arena which host numerous events from Spring to Fall. Several team penning competitions were staged for the group as we watched.

Roadside America a well known tourist attraction featured a miniature village complete with moving vehicles and working trains. The trains weave in and out of the village and farmland on numerous tracks.

A lunch at Kauffman's Chicken Bar-be-que and Miniature Golf facilities, a local business famous for its chicken recipe provided the resting place and final stop of the annual summer event.

The Tulpehocken Summer Tour Committee included William T. Palmer Jr. - chairperson, Paul Zimmerman, Lolly Lesher - registration, Donna Hix - hospitality, Susan Palmer - Scavenger Hunt and program Logo, Faye & Donald Daub and Donna Kunkle - Favors and Centerpieces and Christine Williams - Advisor.

Fleener Shows Supreme

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Kyle Fleener of Robesonia on Monday showed the supreme champion sheep of the Lebanon Area Fair breeding sheep competition.

His Hampshire spring lamb, champion ewe of its breed show, was named the supreme of the breeds at the modest breeding sheep show held at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

The 4-H and vocational breeding sheep show isopen to nine or more breeds, and the champion rams and ewes from each breed compete for the title of supreme champion.

In addition to the Hampshire sheep, breeds exhibited were Southdown, Corriedale, and Dorset.

In the "other" breed classification, Cassie Schaeffer showed two animals to win champion ram and champion ewe.

In the four-animal Corriedale breed, Darrell and Laura Martin showed their animals. Darrell showed the champion, an ewe aged between 1 and 2 years old; while Laura showed the reserve champion, a ewe of the same age.

In the Dorset show, Ann Leed showed the champion and reserve champion. In the Hampshire show, Fleener showed both champions in the four-exhibitor contest.

In the Southdown breed, Matthew Brown showed the champion, a spring ewe lamb, and the reserve champion, a yearling ewe.

Herd Management Goals - Article 9

What must your herd accomplish in order to generate the profit needed for your family and for other purposes? What goals do you need to set for your herd, and are these herd goals consistent with your personal values and goals and with the overall goals of the farm business in general?

Last week's article focused on various benchmarks that you can compare your dairy business to, but there is more to goal setting than simply "being like" other respected producers or being similar to a set of benchmark data Goal setting requires more thought than that, because the goals you set for your herd or business should be tailored to your specific situation Goals can be affected by a variety of situations, such as availability of capital, renting a farm vs owning a farm, growing most of your feed vs buying a lot of the feed you need, using BST vs not using it, tie-stall vs free-stall operations, large herd vs small herd, grazing vs confinement, starting up in dairying vs being established or phasing out of dairy, etc

Analyze your own situation and options, your personal and business goals and values, your management style, you abilities, your likes and dislikes, your production costs, etc After you have done that, you now have a basis for setting some goals for your herd and then developing management strategies to help the herd meet those goals Table 1 can serve as a guide for developing some goals for your herd Values in the "High" and "Fair" columns are arbitrary, so feel free to substitute figures that might be more appropriate for you The table lists a lot of possible goals, but don't let that overwhelm you Select only a few key areas that you would like to focus on or improve Then, set goals that are attainable and profitable, and enter your values in the "Yours" column Also enter a target date for completing these goals, and then strive diligently to attain your goals by your target date

Ag Showcase Again Part Of Cecil Fair

Approximatly 200 farmers from Maryland and Pennsylvania attended the Ag Showcase Day as part of the Cecil County Fair on Tuesday. Field demonstrations and educational programs were again part of this annual event.

For the 18th year, local equipment dealers, ag suppliers, the Cecil County Fair board and the Maryland Cooperative extension teamed up to put on Ag Showcase Day at the fair. Held at the Fair Hill Natural Resources Management Area, this year's program included educational features on interactive hay and forage judging demonstrations conducted by Dr. Les Vough, extension forage specialist.

David Wilson, Cecil County extension agent, said this educational feature was for those who are buying or selling hay or silage. Farmers buying want to get the most for their money, and those selling want to know how to price their forages according to nutritional value.

Wilson said the showcase has become a social event as well as a place for farmers to get to see different brands of the newest equipment working in the fields side by side. In addition, the popular tractor ride and drive course gave interested farmers to a hands-on view of the new tractors and skid loaders.

Field demonstrations included mower/conditioner; wet hay baling and wrapping; and dry hay baling. Equipment dealers working the demonstrations incluced Stackey, Kennedyville; Hoober, Inc., Middletown, Ag Industrial, Rising Sun, and Cooper Equipment, Cecilton.

Beekeeping Focus

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Beekeeping is a rapidly changing avocation. Not only must beekeepers manage their bees, they also must deal with recent infestations of parasitic mites and related diseases that can decimate their colonies.

To help current and prospective beekeepers keep their hives healthy and productive, Mid-Atlantic Apiculture — a five-state conosortium administered by Penn State's Department of Entomology — is sponsoring a short course titled "The Changing Fundamentals of Beekeeping," Aug. 28-30. The course will be held in State College at the Days Inn-Penn State, with laboratory and field sessions at various locations around Penn State's University Park campus.

Bee experts from Penn State, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and the University of Delaware will offer sessions on honey bee biology, seasonal management, mites and diseases, honey bee behavior, computer software and the Internet, honey bee research, honey crops, and marketing.

A registration fee of $90 includes all conference sessions, parking, and a reception. Registrations received after Aug. 14 are $100. One-day registration is $50. Walk-in registrations will be accepted as space allows.

For more information, call the Office of Conferences and Short Courses at (814) 865-8301.

Groff Receives Clean Water Award At Field Day, Conservation Expo

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — One of the nation's strongest no-till advocates and a staunch conservation farmer opened the doors Wednesday to his farm here, inviting about 240 producers and agri-industry representatives to the county's annual conservation expo that featured the healthful soil benefits of no-till.

Steve Groff, along with father Elias and family, demonstrated why no-till is essential to keeping farming viable and profitable in the state and the country.

In addition, the Groff family was honored with the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Foundation Clean Water Farm Award for "protecting water on the farm itself, for southeastern Pennsylvania, and for the state," said Chris Herr, deputy agriculture secretary, who presented the award to the Groffs.

The award, according to Herr, recognizes Pennsylvanians who "excel in water quality protection."

Steve Groff and father Elias farm 175 acres of corn, alfalfa, tomatoes, pumpkins, soybeans, small grains, and a few other vegetables on hilly land in southern Lancaster County.

Steve is the third generation to manage the rolling acres, which have been contoured for at least 40 years.

(Groff's family were profiled in numerous issues of Lancaster Farming through the years for their innovative no-till vegetable farming and conservation work. They were honored in March with the Lancaster County Conservation District's Outstanding Cooperator Award and featured in the March 21 issue of this newspaper.)

In a statement prepared and distributed at the field day, Groff noted that he started using no-till in the early 1980s on about 15 corn acres. Groff began using cover crops at Cedar Meadow Farm in 1991 as another soil conservation measure.

"I started using rye for winter erosion control on fields that would have been bare," he indicated. "But now I plant cover crops based on the succeeding crop that I want to plant into it the next year."

He has experimented with various types of cover crops. At the field day and Lancaster County Conservation Expo on his farm Wednesday, he noted how important it is to keep the soil covered at all times.

His favorite combination for transplanting tomatoes is a three-way mix of hairy vetch, crimson clover, and rye. For pumpkins, he uses vetch and spring oats. For soybeans he spins rye on top of cornstalks, then he rolls the stalks to shake the rye seeds down into the soil.

To roll the cover crops, Groff uses a rolling stalk chopper with parallel linkages. It flattens and crimps cornstalks or other material. The machine has two rows of rollers, four in front and four in back, with eight 23-inch wide blades per roller. The turning rollers crimp up the cover and push it right down.

On Wednesday Groff demonstrated how quickly the crop can be rolled down. He chopped through a large stand of sorghum-sudangrass, rolling one side of the field at about 15 miles per hour.

He has used the versatile machine on 350 acres in two years.

Groff said that the combination of cover crops and no-tilling does more than cut erosion. He noted it "improves soil tilth, increases organic matter levels, enhances water infiltration, and reduces pest problems."

Legume covers such as vetch or crimson clover also add nitrogen to the fields. Use of manure from the steer finishing operation and importing hog and poultry manure help with nutrient needs.

After the stalk chopper, tomato, broccoli, and other transplant material are planted into the vetch using a no-till subsurface tiller/transplanter developed by Dr. Ron Morse, Virginia Tech. The transplanter has a spring-loaded 20-inch, straight-bladed coulter, followed by a subsurface tiller that gently opens a slot to place the transplant.

At the field day, Groff demonstrated broccoli transplants using the equipment. The package leaves virtually no soil showing after the crop is planted, giving good full-coverage mulch for mid- to late-season tomatoes.

The no-till system stems early blight, controls erosion, and helps in terms of total savings. Total savings using the no-till transplanting system for tomatoes amounts to about $550 per acre.

Nearly $500 of the cost reduction is from material, labor, and time savings when eliminating the use of plastic mulch.

Groff also has had success in no-tilling pumpkins, sweet corn, and peppers, as well as fall broccoli. Groff has also transplanted pumpkins this way. It has worked with eggplant, melons, and even snap beans.

All 175 acres are in no-till. According to Groff, herbicides have been reduced to near ½ normal rates.

During the day, demonstrations were given on soil quality by Dr. Ray Weil and Joel Gruver, soil quality researchers from the University of Maryland.

Dr. Joel Myers, state agronomist with NRCS, spoke about the use of no-till in farming systems.

"The primary no-till crop is no-till soybeans," he said. "There are 21 million acres of no-till soybeans in the U.S."

Myers noted that 35 percent of soybeans in Pennsylvania are planted no-till.

No-till can be used in conjunction with cover crop to protect the soil.

"To protect the soil, keep it covered," he said. "That's the first line in getting it protected. Keep the soil covered year- round."

At the field day, equipment demonstrations included zone and slit tillage, a no-till drill, a deep tiller and fertilizer injector, corn planter, and subsoiler.

Also, other farms were honored along with Groff's with the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) Clean Water Award Wednesday. They included:

- Lee and Sharon Durandetta, Knox Township, Clearfield County.
- Gerald and Linda Smith, Martinsburg, Blair County.

Both farms were honored at a PACD meeting in Monroeville.

The Groff family was honored with the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Foundation Clean Water Farm Award by Chris Herr, deputy agriculture secretary, far left, who presented the award to the Groffs Wednesday. The award, according to Herr, recognizes Pennsylvanians who excel in water quality protection. Next to Herr, from left, are Cheri and Steve Groff, with Steve holding son David, 22 months, and Marian and Elias, Steve's parents. In front are Steve and Cheri Groff's children, Lauren, 4 and Dana, 6.

At the field day, Groff, standing with his hand on equipment, demonstrated his no-till transplanter, placing in broccoli. The package leaves virtually no soil showing after the crop is planted, giving good full-coverage mulch.

On Wednesday Groff demonstrated how quickly the crop can be rolled down. He chopped through a large stand of sorghum-sudangrass, rolling one side of the field at 15 miles per hour. He has used the versatile machine on 350 acres in two years.

Test Plots Demonstrate Field Conditions

The Monsanto Company held a showcase of the latest in crop production technology at the Brubaker AGronomic Consulting Research Farm, Ephrata on Tuesday afternoon. Jeff Vance, Monsanto's coordinator for the event, said the purpose of the event was to show some of the technologies that are available today and some that are coming down the road. "Things have changed so much over the last several years we want to answer any questions our customers may have about our products," Vance said. "Roundup ready soybeans" have developed a tremendous amount of market share over the last two or three years. Now roundup ready corn promises to do the same thing especially in Lancaster County and other areas where grass and broadleaf weeds are a problem. Where farmers needed two products, now they can get control with only one product."

The demonstration plots showed how the different products worked in actual field conditions. Officials expected 150 farmers, dealers, and crop consultants to attend the late afternoon meeting.

Weighing Your Options

Agriculture is one of the few industries in the world where producers do not know their final selling price until after their goods are sold. This is why farmers are sometimes called 'price takers' rather than "price makers." As margins for returns continue to shrink, many farmers are beginning to explore futures markets and hedging as ways to help stabilize their returns. Price volatility and uncertainty are often things that not only producers, but also users of commodities attempt to minimize.

One of the newest players in the commodity free markets is the dairy industry. As the government price support systems begin to be phased out, dairy farmers will need to become aware of their alternatives. For dairy farmers, the practice of using the futures and options markets to protect against low milk prices is known as hedging.

Richard Mollitor, an agriculture risk management specialist at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, defines hedging as the practice of taking a position in the futures and/or options market opposite to that in the cash market. The opportunity includes locking in profitable selling prices (by selling futures contracts) and establishing a minimum selling price while still allowing you to benefit from a rising market (by buying Put options). The Put option becomes your 'insurance' against a dramatic downturn in the price of milk. Just like insurance, you hope you'll never need it, but if you do you'll be glad you took the time to figure it out.

According to Mollitor, dairy futures are beginning to gain more widespread acceptance. The biggest challenge is a lack of understanding based on misconceptions of the futures market.

Here is an example from one of Mollitor's actual accounts of how hedging can work for a dairy farmer. On April 1, a dairy farmer buys a June 12.00 BFP Put option for $.50 cwt. (the cost was $500 per 100,000 lbs. of milk). At the time, the June BFP futures price was 11.67 cwt. The next five weeks saw dairy prices drop significantly, and by May 7, the June BFP futures were at 10.82. This 85-cent drop (11.67-10.82) was responsible for the farmer's option price increasing to a value of $1.16 per cwt. On May 7, the Put option was sold at 1.16 to realize a profit of 66-cents per cwt. (1.16-.50). With a commission cost of $45 per contract (4.5-cents per cwt.) the net profit was 61.5-cents per cwt.

The farmers who understood the market were able to realize 61.5-cents per cwt. more revenue than the farmer who chose not to hedge their milk production. As milk supports are eliminated, it will be more important than ever that small to medium sized farms are able to maximize their returns. The need to have a fixed price several months out will eventually supersede the farmers' reluctance and fear of becoming involved.

One way some dairy farmers will be able to explore the commodities markets is a pilot program announced by United States Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman called the Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP). Farmers in selected counties will be offered a financial incentive to use options to manage their price risks. Producers who participate in the program will be trained on how to use the commodities markets also.

As farmers become exposed more and more to the ups and downs of a free market economy, futures and options can offer some insurance against a dramatic downturn in the market. They may just keep you and your family on the farm.

Feel free to send your comments and ideas to Jim Shirk at The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry, PO Box 1558, Lancaster, PA 17608-1558, by email at jshirk@lcci.com or call him at (717) 397-3531.

Swine Show Exhibitors Recognize Brothers' Help In Picking Champions

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — What's a little help from some friends?

Or, how about a little help from some . . . brothers?

Megan Fuls, who walked away with the supreme ribbon, and Billie Jo Atkins, with reserve, admitted they needed help in selecting a pig that could win the Lebanon Area Fair Swine Show championship.

They called upon their brothers, veterans of the show ring.

Megan's brother Justin, who did well at the show, helped select the pig when the family purchased it privately from Donny Sheis, Indiana.

And the reserve shown by Billie Jo relied on the guidance of her brother Dan.

For Megan, 12, daughter of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland, her 260-pound Blue Butt crossbred gilt topped the heavyweight division, then secured the overall crossbred classes. It also won out over competition from purebreeds at the fair.

Megan said this is her first Lebanon Area Fair champion. She is in 7th grade at Conrad Weiser.

According to her father, Kevin, "her brother got her interested in showing hogs," he said. Fortunately for the exhibitor, even though she had last pick of the hogs, she chose the right one during the sale.

Megan said she will be showing hogs at the state farm show.

Reserve champion was a 267-pound Blue Butt crossbred gilt, heavyweight reserve champion, at the fair. It was shown by Billie Jo Atkins, 14, daughter of Bill and Judy Atkins, Lebanon. Billie Jo, who is in the 9th grade at Cedar Crest High School, said that this was her first champion at the fair.

In the crossbred market hog show, lightweight champion went to Kyle Fleener with his 228-pound hog. Reserve went to Wendy Atkins with her 230-pound hog. In the medium weight classes, Tim Crouse picked up champion with his 240-pound hog and Sam Atkins won reserve with his 245-pound swine. Light heavyweight winners were Nathanial Artz, with his 257-pound hog, and reserve went to Laura Arnold with her 255-pound hog.

There were 137 hogs and 75 exhibitors at the show. The number of hogs increased 25 from last year. Judge was Nelson Beam, Elverson.

Following is a list of show placings.

Hayes Tours Lebanon Fair Addition

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Sam Hayes, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture at left, toured the additions to the Lebanon Valley Expo Corporation exhibition facilities Monday afternoon during the Lebanon Area Fair.

According to Richard Kreider, president of the expo, the additions were finished just before the fair began to the beef/sheep barn. Those additions including adding an extension measuring 50 by 72 feet, constructed by volunteers. The extension can house an additional 50 beef cattle, though the facility is multipurpose, according to Kreider.

The $15,000 addition was paid in part by a $10,000 legislative initiative grant from the Dept. of Community and Economic Development. Approval was granted about three months ago, according to Rep. Peter J. Zug (R-102nd), who also attended the tour.

Zug was filming his monthly TV show, the "Legislative Report," for Cable Channel 23 in the county. The show airs on Mondays; though the broadcast won't be for a few weeks. This is the sixth year that Zug has taped events at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Mase's Brown Swiss Supreme At Lebanon Fair

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Garrett Mase of Lebanon on Tuesday exhibited a senior 3-year-old Brown Swiss cow to win the supreme championship of the 1998 Lebanon Area Fair youth dairy shows.

The win was a first for Garrett, with his senior 3-year-old, Towpath Jetway Gilda, the grand champion of the FFA and open division Brown Swiss shows of the Lebanon Area Fair.

His win was also a first for the Lebanon Area Fair, because it was the first time, to knowledge, that a pair of siblings captured both the supreme and runner-up supreme titles at the same time.

Garrett's younger brother, Anthony Mase, showed the runner-up supreme champion, an 8-year-old, Pheasant Ridge Marie, that was grand champion of the 4-H division show.

Garrett received the supreme championship trophy, while younger brother Anthony received a fancy show halter.

The boys are the sons of Gary and Patti Mase, who own and operate a Brown Swiss dairy farm at the edge of the city of Lebanon. The family has consistently exhibited highly competitive Brown Swiss cattle at the fair, as well as at regional and national breed industry shows.

They have a daughter, Alicia, who exhibited a supreme champion several years ago at the fair. Also a Brown Swiss, that champion was Meadowhill Jade Alice, a 7-year-old that Alicia showed this week to win first place in the aged cow, 5-years-old and older, class.

Alicia also exhibited a senior 3-year-old Brown Swiss, Meadowhill Patrick Alania, a daughter of that seven-year-old homebred and past show-winning cow.

In the open division Brown Swiss show, Gary Mase showed the reserve grand champion. The family's entries dominated the cow classes.

But the supreme champion is selected from the grand champions of the Lebanon Area Fair youth 4-H and FFA dairy cattle breed shows, all held Tuesday.

The open division shows for all but the Holstein breed were held Tuesday. The open division Holstein show was to have been held Friday, after press deadline.

In addition to the Brown Swiss youth champions, the 4-H and FFA division champion Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayrshires, and Guernseys were also in competition for the supreme title.

The Lebanon Area Fair supreme championship class for youth was started years ago as a local version of the supreme championship titles that have been awarded at the state Farm Show, as well as the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

The Lebanon Area Fair was held throughout the week at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, located in North Cornwall Township, along Cornwall Road, south of the city of Lebanon.

Show judge of the colored breeds shows (all except Holsteins) was Dennis Patrick of Woodbine, Md. Judge for the Holstein show and for the supreme show was David Hill, of Thurmont, Maryland.

Brown Swiss

In the rest of the Brown Swiss open division show, the junior champion was a summer yearling, Viking Pride Jetway Heidi, bred and owned by Michael Kunkle of Jonestown.

The reserve junior champion was a fall calf, One-Hill Jetway Lena, bred and owned by Melissa Moyer of Womelsdorf.

In the Brown Swiss 4-H division, Anthony's aged cow was grand champion, while his senior 2-year-old, Meadowhill Jade Aubrice, was reserve grand champion.

The 4-H junior champion Brown Swiss was a summer yearling, One-Hill Preview Abigail, bred and owed by Kristen Moyer of Womelsdorf, while her spring yearling Dublin HIlls PR Pecan TW was reserve junior champion.

The reserve grand champion of the Brown Swiss FFA show was Garrett's senior 2-year-old, Meadowhill Jade Afton ET, bred by Alicia.

Holstein

The youth Holstein show was large, though mostly consisting of 4-H exhibitors. There were 19 4-H entries in the fall calf class; 16 entries in the spring calf class, and the same number of winter calves.

In the 4-H division Holstein show, the grand champion was last year's supreme champion, 4-year-old Dalee-Bred Counselor Posie, bred and owned by Timothy Vail, of Lebanon.

The reserve grand champion was a senior 3-year-old, Oakenbound CR Fancy-ET, owned by Jaclyn Troutman of Oakenbound Farm in Richland.

Amy Moyer of Womelsdorf showed the 4-H junior champion Holstein, a winter yearling, Ju-Vindale Marksman Hanna. The reserve junior champion was the second place winter yearling, Dream-On Starboy Aundry, bred and owned by Katie Lentz, of Dream-On Holsteins, near Fredericksburg.

In the FFA division Holstein show, the grand champion was a dry cow, Sonnylee Tesk Annie, bred and owned by Melinda (Bomgardner) Hossler of Lebanon.

The reserve grand champion was a junior 3-year-old, Shuey-Dizam Mister Hilda, owned by Andrew Ebersole of Lebanon.

Jersey

The Jersey show was the second largest show, indicating a growth in the breed in the county.

In the open division show, the grand champion was 8-year-old Maranatha Deacons Cherub, owned by Andrew Dice of Fredericksburg. It was also the grand champion of the FFA division show.

The reserve grand champion was a senior 3-year-old, Gaywinds Berretta Camay, owned by Bethanie Heagy, of Lebanon. It was also the grand champion of the 4-H division.

The open division junior champion was a fall calf, Sonnylee Centurion Sierra, bred and owned by Joel Bomgardner, son of Harvey E. and Kathy Bomgardner of Sonnylee Holsteins in Lebanon. It was also the junior champion of the 4-H division show.

In the 4-H division Jersey show, the reserve grand champion was a 4-year-old, Oakenbound Bold Reba, bred and owned by Justin Troutman of Richland.

The 4-H division reserve junior champion was a spring yearling, AJM Marcus Lexie, bred and owned by Alex Werner, of Jonestown.

In the FFA division, the reserve grand champion was Andrew Dice's bred and owned 7-year-old, Blue Mountain Yankee Jane.

Ayrshire

The reserve grand champion of the open division was a 6-year-old, Heather-Brooke-S.S. Parsley, owned by Heather, Merritt and Amber Hernley, all of Lebanon.

Pattie Maulfair of Jonestown showed the junior champion of the open division, a fall yearling, Forest Park Patricia.

Merritt Hernley showed the open division reserve junior champion, a fall calf, West Meadow Sienna, that was also the 4-H division junior champion.

In a close placing for grand champion of the 4-H division, judge Patrick made Daryl Maulfair's bred and owned 4-year-old Maulfair-Acres Festival D.J. the grand champion, while making his sister Jennifer's dry 4-year-old, Masonic-Homes Welcome Rebecca, the reserve grand champion.

Daryl Maulfair showed the FFA champions.

Guernsey

The Guernsey show of the Lebanon Area Fair was somewhat small, but larger than most county fair shows for the breed.

Andrew Ebersole of Lebanon dominated the show, with his junior 3-year-old, Lebanon Valley Valiant Rita, winning the grand championship of the open division.

His 4-year-old, Sher Beck Magic Salina, was open division reserve grand champion, and grand champion of the FFA division.

Erin Smith of Palmyra had the open division and 4-H division junior champion, a home-bred winter yearling, Lebanon Valley B Lilly. It was also the 4-H division reserve grand champion.

The open division reserve junior champion was a summer yearling, shown by Amanda Ebersole of Lebanon.

The grand champion of the 4-H division was Andrew Ebersole's senior 2-year-old, Liseter Farm Nobles Laura.

Quality Forage Meetings

Guest Speakers

• Dr. Keith Bolsen
Professor of Forage Preservation & Ruminant Nutrition
Kansas State University

• Dr. Limin Kung
Associate Professor
University of Delaware

- These meetings will cover the fermentation process, inoculants and preservatives, harvesting management, refilling silos, bunk life, molds & toxins.
- Milk production and cow health are greatly influenced by the forage base quality. Fall harvest is your window of time to manage for production.
- This is an excellent opportunity to learn management tools from the leading researchers so you may feed top quality forages next year.

Schedule

August 11	Belleville/Mifflintown (9:30 a.m.)
August 11	Myerstown (7:00 p.m.)
August 12	Bainbridge (9:30 a.m.)
August 12	Farmersville (7:00 p.m.)
August 13	Cochranville/Christiana (9:30 a.m.)
August 13	Honeybrook (7:00 p.m.)

All Farmers are invited... You don't have to be a customer to attend.

- Please call 1-800-361-9265 for additional information and directions.
- All meetings will be held on farms.
- There will be time for questions and answers.

Looking forward to seeing you...
Come and prepare for a successful Fall Harvest!

Produce-Promotion Program

LEVITTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. unveiled a new program to promote the sale of fresh Pennsylvania produce.

Unveiling a "Pennsylvania Produce — Simply Delicious" billboard, Hayes said, "Today, we are answering Gov. Tom Ridge's challenge to increase marketing opportunities for Pennsylvania's No. 1 industry. We want to make consumers aware of the abundant, high-quality, nutritious fruits and vegetables available here."

The promotion is a public/private partnership to increase the market for locally grown produce by introducing supermarket buyers to Pennsylvania farmers.

More than 60 billboards advertising Pennsylvania produce will be posted throughout the commonwealth. Additional point-of-sale and other promotional materials will be made available to participating supermarkets by the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association, which is coordinating the project. The program is an outgrowth of a successful pilot project conducted last summer in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Also participating are the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program, and the Pennsylvania Potato Growers and Penn State Cooperative Extension. For more information, contact the Bureau of Market Development at (717) 787-6901.

Tractor Collection

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WATERFALL (Fulton Co.) — For their time, they were the neatest riding tractors you could buy.

Raleigh Barnett ought to now. He purchased a Ford 8N brand-new in 1952.

Barnett loved the tractor's easy maneuverability and its ability to plow close to the fence.

"It was the first tractor to offer a three-point hitch," said Barnett. Other tractors didn't have the standard three-point hitch until later.

Barnett, who once owned a strip coal mine and who farms 100 acres, has collected 51 of the Ford 8Ns. "I'm getting more each year," he said.

Barnett will drive the remodeled and polished tractors out on his land to display during the third week in October at the Fulton County Fall Folk Festival.

The countywide event features all the "old stuff in the county," said Barnett. The festival provides a look into the types of equipment and ways of farming, as well as other ways of living, in an older time.

At that time of year, the leaves turn color and people have a chance to look back on what the county's agriculture has to offer, Barnett noted.

Ford manufactured the 8Ns from 1947-1952. The gas-powered models featured 20 horsepower ("about 20.4, to be exact," said Barnett).

Barnett believes the 8Ns to be popular because that model, more than any tractor, "I figured finally took the place of horses," he said. "A nice, neat tractor for its day."

Barnett may have the single largest collection of the 8Ns in the country.

Penn State Hosts International Poultry Science Meeting

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — More than 1,000 of the world's top poultry scientists will flock to Penn State for the 1998 Poultry Science Association Meeting Aug. 1-5 at the Penn Stater Conference Center Hotel.

"This event brings together research scientists, producers, educators, extension specialists, and poultry industry managers," said William Weaver, Penn State professor and head of poultry science. "The Poultry Science Association is the most prominent poultry research and scientific society in the world. Attendees will come from all over the United States, as well as Canada, Europe, Asia, and other areas."

More than 400 scientific presentations are expected at the meeting, covering nutrition, pathology, immunology, physiology, processing/products, genetics, extension/instruction, and environment/management

The event will feature symposia on muscle growth and development, managing poultry reproduction to satisfy market demands, undergraduate poultry science programs, effective extension poultry programming, and reducing the environmental impact of poultry production. Poster sessions and commercial exhibits are also scheduled.

Among the meeting's special presentations will be a keynote address by the National Broiler Council's William Roenigk, who will speak on the "Economic Significance of the Poultry Muscle Foods Industry." Rustom Roy, Penn State Evan Pugh Professor of Science, Technology, and Professor of Geochemistry, will present the meeting's opening session, titled "Applications-Driven Science: Science's Future."

Let's focus now on business plans. In their book "Business Plans for Dummies", authors Paul Tiffany and Steven Peterson state "Planning is a strategy to improve the odds of success in a business world that's constantly changing".

A business plan involves looking at where you've been, where you are, where you want to take your business and how you plan to get there. It looks at your industry and your competition. While developing the plan, you review the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats as each relates to your business.

- What does a business plan typically include? Although the information may be organized differently, most will include the following:
- Summary of the plan. This is sometimes referred to as an Executive Summary. It is actually the first section and provides a concise review of the entire plan.
- Develop a mission statement Establish goals and objectives that will focus and guide you toward your mission. These goals and objectives are a critical component and require careful consideration. Determine how you will track and analyze actual results against these goals. Create a vision statement. Place in writing the values by which your business will be operated.
- A description of your business that includes a review of management and advisors. Are you organized as a partnership, proprietorship or corporation? Who is responsible for the various activities within your business? What products or services do you provide? What is your marketing strategy?
- An analysis of the industry, your suppliers, your competitors and your customers.
- A financial review that provides both historical information (if available) and projections. All projections must be consistent with the other assumptions made within your plan.
- Indicate your strategies for addressing the issues described within the other sections of your plan. For example, maybe you are considering scaling back, expanding or exiting the industry. Discuss why you are considering the proposed strategies.
- Finally, an action plan that indicates the specific steps you expect to take to implement the plan. For example, do you need to involve specialists? Do you or your employees require additional training to make the plan work?

Remember, the business plan does not provide all the right and wrong answers, and is not a guarantee for success. The plan is only as good as the assumptions and information used

Farm Bureau Opposes Increased Butter Imports

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is urging members of the United States Congress to oppose efforts to increase imports of butter which would result in lower milk prices for dairymen.

Farm Bureau's request comes on the heels of a recent resolution by its board of directors to oppose imports of butterfat from countries which pay subsidies to their producers.

Butter prices have increased nearly 50 cents per pound over the past two months to over $1.98 per pound. This has resulted in higher butterfat differentials and a higher Basic Formula Price for dairymen.

The International Dairy Foods Association, a Washington, D.C.-based association of processors, manufacturers, marketers, distributors and suppliers of dairy foods, has asked USDA Secretary Dan Glickman to increase from 13 million pounds to 40 million pounds the amount of butter set to enter the United States this year under reduced tariffs.

"American dairy farmers have been told repeatedly in recent months that they need to learn to adapt to the market," said PA Farm Bureau President Guy Donaldson in a letter sent to Pennsylvania's congressmen.

"When one element of the market begins to work in their favor we shouldn't be rushing to change the market. The real result of government intervention would be to drive the price of butter down and decrease the profits and viability of American dairy farmers."

Farm Bureau is urging congressmen to sign a letter being circulated in the House by Rep. Roy Blunt (R-Missouri) requesting USDA not to increase the quantity of butter eligible for in-quota tariff rates. "The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau supports this effort and urges you to cosign the Blunt letter," Donaldson said.

The letter to Agriculture Secretary Glickman being circulated in Congress by Rep. Blunt states, "Prices for dairy products will continue to fluctuate in accordance with the law of supply and demand. The government should not alter policy in response to these price adjustments. We believe that the best policy for consumers and dairy farmers would be to maintain the status quo."

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a voluntary, statewide farm organization which represents over 26,000 farm and rural families. It is part of the nation's largest general farm organization, the 4.8 million member American Farm Bureau Federation.

Farm Bureaus, Penn State To Provide Material

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — County offices of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are collaborating on a campaign to encourage farmers to install improved reflective material on agricultural equipment that operated on public roadways.

The Women's Committees of county bureau offices are starting a new program during July called Fewer Accidents with Reflective Material, or FARM. The program provides highly visible retroreflective marking materials and high performance fluorescent markings for tractors and implements.

The improved materials meet the newly revised safety standard of American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Under the previous ASAE standard, fluorescent material had to have no discoloration or cracking after a year of exposure to the south Florida sun. The new standard has increased that standard to two years.

"Fluorescent material aids daytime visibility," said Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering. "But fluorescent materials don't last forever. Fluorescent dyes decompose from light and moisture and the colors will fade over time. The material's ability to reflect light also will lessen as the material decomposes.

"Retroreflective material reflects the headlights of oncoming vehicles at night," Murphy said. "Retroreflective material holds up much longer than fluorescent markings. However, the new retroreflective markings are nearly 10 times brighter for nighttime visibility than markings currently in use. The new materials can be seen from a mile away, compared to a few hundred feet for earlier signs.

The program offers three different types of kits at reduced cost: a regular kit at $11.50, an extremity kit for equipment with extended booms or other wide attachments at $8.65, and a buggy kit at $17.35. The program also offers three types of leg wraps for the horses starting at $13.25. Contact your county farm bureau or county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension for ordering information.

Elizabeth Smith Wins National Brown Swiss Ambassadorship

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Elizabeth Smith has traded in her county dairy princess crown for the national ambassadorship of the Brown Swiss Association.

"I enjoy talking and promoting something I love. I always want to promote the dairy industry, especially Brown Swiss," Smith said as she related the events leading up to her selection at the National Brown Swiss Convention held in Kansas recently.

Smith can talk for hours, her voice filled with passion and excitement, about the breed that she considers the best of the best.

"Although I'm for all breeds, I've always been a Brown Swiss fan," said Smith. She helps on her parents', Dale and Thomas Smiths', 91-acre Reinhold's farm, where they have 55 milking cows, fairly evenly divided between Brown Swiss and Holsteins.

"As dairy princess I technically wasn't suppose to express a bias, but underneath I've always been partial to Brown Swiss—they have wonderful personalities and are so beautiful. I'm thrilled to be an ambassador for the association," Smith said.

At the national convention, Smith was one of five finalists selected from 17 applicants to compete for the national ambassador title. The other finalists were Nichole Lee Boggs of Andover, Ohio; Clifford Helkenn of Northfield, Minn.; Ann Marie Magnochi of Carnation, Wash.' and Venessa Johnson of Blue Eye, Mo.

"Ambassadors are selected much the same way that dairy princesses are," Smith said. Selection is based on application, interview with judges, and presenting both a prepared and impromptu speech.

The ambassador title replaces the former Brown Swiss Miss contest. The title change was made about three years ago to enable both male and female applicants.

Many people might expect someone so passionate about cows to be studying dairy science or a related field, but Smith is studying communications at the Penn State Harrisburg Campus. Her goal is to be a spokesperson for the dairy industry.

"I really want to go into milk marketing. The public has mostly wrong perceptions about the dairy industry. It's harder and harder to get people in high places such as the government to sanction farming. I want to affect how people perceive the dairy farming industry," Smith said.

"Brown Swiss are the breed of the future," Smith said. "They have high protein milk and are adaptable to varying climates and terrains."

"On our farm, we are replacing more and more Holsteins with Brown Swiss. They live longer than Holsteins and have less prob-

Gordon Hoover is the fourth generation to farm the family farm. Although they farm 188 acres, milk 100 Holsteins, and raise replacements, Hoover, his wife Carole, and daughters, Jill, Brenda, and Leslie strive to keep things simple so that they have time for church, community, and agriculture activities.

Life With The Hoovers Rich In Family Relationships, Dairy Farming Success

GAP (Lancaster Co.) — "Keep things simple," is the strategy Gordon Hoover gives for being able to farm 188 acres, milk 100 cows, take family vacations, and volunteer time in church, farm, and community organizations.

The picturesque farm, home for Hoover, his wife Carole, and daughters Jill, 15; Brenda, 11; and Leslie, 7; is successful from continual study and foresight put into its operation.

"Maintaining a profitable operation is a key to any business success," said Hoover, whose philosophy is that a farm must be run like a business and not like a way of life.

To best fit their lifestyle and goals, the Hoovers run a streamlined operation.

"We don't invest in a lot of equipment. Machinery is a poor investment. Using custom harvesting allows things to progress in a more timely matter," Hoover said.

They store feed in trenches, which allows them to fill trenches faster and maintain quality.

With 100 cows to milk plus raising replacements, the Hoovers are well aware of where they need to focus their efforts.

"Cows pay the bills. We concentrate on herd health and feed efficiency," Hoover said.

Hoover is the fourth generation to farm what is really two adjoining farms. His parents live on one and continue to feed young stock. The younger Hoovers own all the stock and equipment but the farm is still in his dad's name. They are working through the process of a farm transfer. Like many father-son transfers, the Hoovers are finding this a mind-boggling process.

In recent years, three adjoining farms were sold, which Hoover would have liked to have added to the home farm, but, he said, "Business sense must always prevail over desires when it comes to investing money in equipment, land, and cattle. The farms sold from $7,000 to $10,000 an acre. At those prices, you can buy a lot of feed. With high land values, you can't generate enough money through agriculture to make the returns profitable."

In today's market, Hoover said that crops can be purchased cheaper than growing them. The only viable reason that he sees for farmers to rent additional land would be to get rid of manure.

The Hoovers' nutrient management plan allows for expansion, but Hoover said that right now they are comfortable with milking 100 Holsteins and raising young stock.

Although updated and maintained, the Hoovers' milking facilities are 41 years old. They have loose housing and use a double four milking parlor.

"I anticipate that we will eventually expand because the facilities won't last," Hoover said.

Expansion would require an increase in herd size to maintain cash flow. While herd averages are 22,000 pounds, Hoover said that it doesn't matter what the averages are, the important thing is income over feed costs.

"One can make as much money milking 50 as well as 500 head, but the operation results in a different perspective. If you're milking 50 head, you're working seven days a week and long hours. If you're milking 500 head, you're working at a computer and managing employees. You don't end up with more money, but you do make life a bit easier," he said.

Just writing things down really helps keep control of the herd and crops. "You can't do everything in your head," he said.

While many farmers complain of government intervention and environmental policies, Hoover believes enviromental policies are realistically overdue.

He said, "Agriculture has been shielded from a lot of regulations environmentally and from OSHA. If we want to farm into the future, we must make up our mind now to adopt and subscribe to safe practices voluntarily or they will be mandated."

Hoover and Carole believe it is especially valid for OSHA to become involved in farm safety.

"Nothing makes me cringe more than to see a child riding on a tractor," Hoover said.

In addition, he sees too many children helping with farm chores that puts them into accident-prone situations. He said, "We (farmers) can instill the work ethic in children without putting them a risk."

Carole worked in a local hospital for a number of years and saw too many results of children hurt in farm accidents. She said, "I'm leary of children operating equipment."

Hoover understands that to continue, farming must be approached from the business perspective.

"These are rapidly changing times—just because you have a farm doesn't guaranteed you can farm the rest of your life," he said.

"We live in an information age. There is a wealth of information out there. We can't be afraid to ask. My father was a great person to teach me the value of using extension research. It's a learning process to know how to use all the information we receive."

Hoover said that the biggest gain he had from studying dairy production at college was to learn

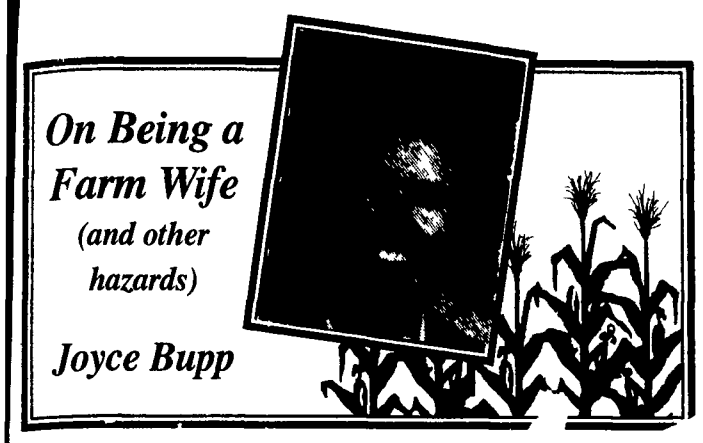
Homestead Notes



What is it about squash, anyway?

Few vegetables get less respect, except maybe for eggplant. But even that has a sort of gourmet specialty named for it. Eggplant Parmesan.

Some veggies are so desirable they get seasonal media coverage, like when the sweet corn is ready, which it is. Not to say the public adoration for sweet corn isn't deserved, because it's an absolutely wonderful food. What could possibly be better than freshly-shucked sweet corn, yanked from the stalk while the water is coming to a boil on the stove, cooked up in a few minutes, then served steaming and sweet, dripping with butter? Or just zapped in the husk for a few minutes in a microwave.

But how much media interest have you ever seen in squash? Except maybe a blurb in the food section. They're rarely even mentioned in food store sale ads.

Tomatoes fare better, too. (Which are not a veggie, but a fruit.) Though it's beyond the realm of my imagination, there are actually folks who don't like tomatoes. Go figure.

Seed catalogs devote large sections to the myriad of tomato varieties available, from the itty-bitty, bite-size ones our grandson likes to snitch from the stalk to the giant beefstakes so large they may give you a backache to pick. Well, if you believe catalog hype.

Even beans are in vogue. One catalog firm, the Vermont Bean Seed Company, devotes 13 pages to a fascinating array of beans. Many of them are heirloom varieties, like the Vermont Cranberry Bean, the Jacob's Cattle Bean, and the Black Turtle Soup Bean. One could easily devote an entire garden to beans.

Our garden this year sports a ten-foot-long row of pole-type Roma beans, the broad, flat green bean I prefer for its meatiness, yields, and taste.

The pole version is a new experiment with this old favorite. While the beans are now just beginning to bear, the long, vining foliage has already yanked its support netting downward and should probably be growing instead on metal hog fence.

The once mostly-ignored broccoli has risen to new popularity in recent years on the vegetable charts. Research findings that the tasty, green flower-stalk and its cruciferous cousins are rich in nutrients with anti-cancerous properties will likely only enhance its desirability.

But how many people go out of their way for squash? Huh? Squash are the Rodney Dangerfield of the produce patch, often generating jokes, jeers, and groans.

Is it because of their unappetizing name?

Is it their overeagerness to grow into baseball bats and bowling pins?

Squash, as a kid, meant sandwiches of them, sliced and prepared by what has now become a nutritional f-word. Fried.

We still enjoy them that way occasionally, but consume far more tender young squash thinly sliced in circles, with a little sliced onion, slivers of red bell pepper, garlic powder, and Italian seasoning, sauteed together gently until tender in a few tablespoons of mild salsa. Practically no calories.

With that in mind, I planted three hills of hybrid yellow crooknecks and green zucchini. Mother Nature threw in her own two hills of yellow squash volunteers, one of gigantic proportions thriving in the compost pile.

We are literally being squashed this summer.

Maybe squash just need better P.R. or their own spin doctor.

A four-year-old friend of our has the right idea. Unable to pronounce "zucchini," he instead calls them "bikinis."

That name change might not get squash any more respect But it would surely generate more interest

"We have a 14-year-old cow that calves every single year and is healthy. In fact, the classifier said that she looks as good as an eight-year-old," said Smith.

According to Smith, Brown Swiss can produce 30,000 pounds as 2-year-olds. Because they are sturdier their body can handle the extra weight.

Nonetheless, Smith doesn't want to be argumentive about the breed's outstanding qualities. She said, "Overall I'm promoting farming itself. It doesn't matter what kind of cow you prefer, we (farmers) must work together to survive."

She is thrilled that next year, for the first time ever, the Brown Swiss and Ayrshire breeds will hold a joint national convention in Maryland.

She foresees this as a positive move, which may encourage more breeds to combine resources in order to be heard.

Although she is a national ambassador, Smith said that the organization lacks funding to send her on a world promotion tour. She will attend the World Dairy Expo, All American, and surrounding state shows as a spokesperson for the industry. Serving as alternate is Clifford Helkenn of Minn.

In addition to serving a one-year term as Lancaster County's dairy princess and now as the Brown Swiss national ambassador, Smith is working as a summer intern at the Lancaster extension office.

The 20-year-old Smith said that her experiences as a dairy princess and her job as a summer extension assistant are honing her communication skills. While many people might not perceive working with children as building communication skills, Smith points out that children ask the most impromptu questions. "Their questions force you to think quickly to come up with an answer," she said.

Some of her innovative answers surfaced when, as a dairy princess, she was asked during a school presentation if she lived in a castle because she was a princess.

Smith said, "I live in a 200-year-old stone castle," in reference to her family's farm house.

Another child ask her if she could spin straw into gold since she was a princess.

Smith answered, "Not yet. I can't fool Rumpelstiltskin, since he was fooled by all the princesses and has wised up."

Smith has honed her time budgeting skills with responsibilities on the farm, dairy princess, college, and a job.

After intense self examination, Smith came to the conclusion that dairy promotion is her forte. She said, "If I'm not busy, I'm not happy. If I'm not with people, I'm not happy."

She is thrilled to have the opportunity to fulfill her dreams. "I wanted the opportunity to promote the Brown Swiss industry. I like being able to talk for farmers who don't have the time, the chance, or the talent. This is an important role to fill and I will do it as long as dairy farmers find me acceptable," Smith said.

Smith is available to speak and assist at dairy functions and other events. Call her at (717) 336-0553.

Keep Summer Safety In Mind

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — Heat stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and heat rash are illnesses suffered by many during the summer or while working in hot environments. Sun burns are also common when working or relaxing outdoors. These illnesses can easily be prevented with some foresight and common sense.

Ideas:

- Wear a wide-brimmed hat to keep your head and face cool and protected from the sun. Ball-style caps are not suitable because they provide little protection.
- Carry a source of water with you and take drinks frequently, about every 14 minutes.
- Take short rest periods in the shade or in a cool environment during the hottest times of the day.
- Gradually adjust to working in the heat over a period of 10-20 days.
- Wear a sunscreen that has an SPF of 15 or higher.

ATV Safety:

ATV's have become popular for work and recreation on many farms and ranches. Along with their popularity has been a reported increase in serious injuries and deaths. Most of these can be attributed to improper use and handling of the ATV. Make ATV safety a priority on your farm or ranch.

Ideas:

- ATVs with an engine of 70cc to 90cc should only be operated by people age 12 and over.
- ATVs with an engine of greater than 90cc could only be operated by people age 16 and over.
- An ATV is not a toy. Children should not be permitted to operate ATVs without specialized training. Contact the ATV Safety Institute to enroll in the Rider Course at 1-800-887-2887.
- Wear appropriate riding gear, such as DOT, Snell or ANSI approved helmet, goggles, gloves, over-the-ankle boots, long-sleeve shirt and long pants.

Consuming Thoughts

by

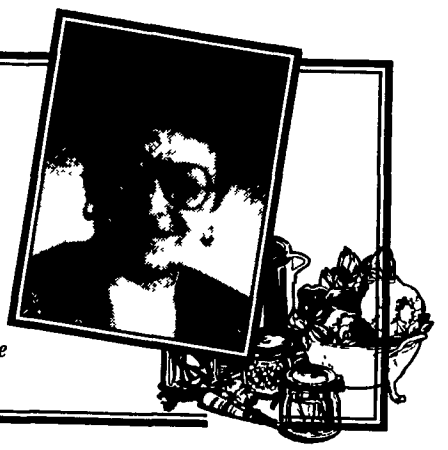
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Consumers often substitute honey for refined sugar thinking that honey is so much healthier. But is it?

The mistaken reasoning is simple; since refined sugar is a processed food, it's unnatural. Honey, on the other hand, is a natural food, produced by bees and except for the processes of collecting it, untouched by human hands.

Many people believe natural is better than processed food, so they conclude that honey is better than refined sugar.

To the palate, refined white sugar and honey are quite different. To the chemist, they're practically identical. Honey is made of approximately equal amounts of two sugar chemicals (monosaccarides), glucose, and fructose. Refind sugar is made of the same two monosaccarides, but they're joined to form the disaccharide sucrose. In the body, though, both sugar and honey are the same after digestion.

Nutritionally, honey has no real advantage over sugar. Despite claims it's a "wonder food," honey contains only a trace amount of protein, calcium, iron, vitamin A, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin or Vitamin C.

Natural and less refined sugars like honey do contain chromium, a trace metal which seems to offer a little protection against moderate amounts of natural sugar by enhancing insulin function. It's doubtful however, if chromium offers protection against large quantities of sugar, no matter how unrefined.

There are plenty of reasons for liking honey, but medicinal value and nutrition are not two of them. And although bee pollen and royal jelly do wonders for bees, there is no scientific evidence they do anything out of the ordinary for humans.

Honey is a source of energy (calories) It differs from sugar in the way that it provides energy. Cane and beet sugars must be broken down into simpler sugars by digestive juices before they can be absorbed into the bloodstream and assimilated into the tissues. Honey is made up of simple sugars so little digestion is necessary and absorption takes place quickly, producing almost instant energy. For this to be of importance to you however, you'd have to be a marathon runner or long distance bicyclist. For the everyday average athletes, honey's "instant energy" isn't a factor.

The only other significant difference between sugar and honey is the number of calories per spoonful. Sugar has fewer calories because sugar is less dense than honey. Crystals of sugar take up more space than liquid honey. When honey is used in place of sugar in cooking, less liquid is needed and more browning will take place.

Honey, as well as other sugars, plays a role in dental cavities. It may be of particular concern since it is sticky and stays in the teeth longer.

Honey may contain a bacteria, C. botulinum, that, under the right conditions can cause illness and death in infants. C. botulinum, the organism that causes botulism, is a bacteria found widely in nature. It isn't harmful unless it's allowed to grow and form a toxin. C. botulium may grow and form the toxin in the large intestine of infants, so honey isn't recommended for infants under the age of one.

From a nutritional standpoint, it matters little how you take sugar, as white table sugar, brown sugar, raw, fructose or honey The main reason for substituting honey should be taste—not nutrition or health It's really wonderful on hot biscuits!

Fresh From The Garden

Americans enjoy more than twice as many fresh vegetables as they did 25 years ago. And there's never been more variety to choose from.

In Pennsylvania, 3,000 vegetables growers produce more than 30 different crops. Many of those vegetables are grown on small family farms and sold direct to consumers through farm markets and roadside stands.

Vegetables taste fresher and are less expensive in season than those imported from other regions of the country.

Not only do fresh vegetables taste better, they are good for you. The National Academy of Scientists and the U.S. Surgeon General recommend five servings of fresh produce daily.

Those experts advise the key to good nutrition is variety with every meal, including vegetables.

As an easy guide, select green leafy vegetables like lettuce for folic acid and other B complex vitamins; dark yellow or orange vegetables, like carrots and squash for vitamin A; and tomatoes, cabbage, and peppers for vitamin C.

Fresh vegetables also supply important minerals like iron, zinc, and potassium, and are an excellent source of dietary fiber.

High fiber vegetables contribute more to good health than just vitamins and nutrients. The American Cancer Society recommends a high fiber diet to protect against colon cancer. In addition, vegetables rich in vitamin C like cabbage and tomatoes can reduce the risk of stomach and esophagus cancer.

Many fresh vegetables contain pectin which actually works to lower blood cholesterol levels by trapping fat molecules and moving them through the digestive system before they are absorbed in the bloodstream.

Raw vegetables such as carrots and celery also act as detergent foods that sweep over teeth and soft tissues cleansing them of sugar and debris.

The preparation of fresh vegetables have a great effect on nutritional content. To ensure they retain nutrients, follow the three R's during cooking.

- Reduce the amount of water used
- Reduce cooking time.
- Reduce the surface areas exposed by cooking vegetables whole.

Follow these simple guidelines will produce fresher tasting vegetables and provide healthy doses of nutrients ranging from vitamin A to zinc.

The fastest way of cooking vegetables also turns out to be the best way to preserve their nutritional qualities, so use the microwave.

Unlike steaming and boiling, the microwave requires little liquid, allowing vegetables to retain more of their valuable vitamins and nutrients.

Of course, we like variety in vegetables also. Here are some wonderful vegetable recipes from our readers.

SWEET AND SOUR CARROTS

1 pound carrots, diagonally sliced
1 medium green pepper, seeded and cut into 1-inch squares
8-ounce can pineapple chunks
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Cook carrots in covered saucepan in a small amount of slightly salted water until tender. Add green pepper squares and cook three minutes more. Drain. Drain pineapple reserving juice. Add water to make ½ cup liquid. In another saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Stir in pineapple liquid, vinegar, and soy. Cook, stirring until bubbly. Stir in vegetables and pineapple chunks. Heat through. Serves 6.

This is a pretty dish with all ingredients cut in different shapes. Serve in a glass vegetable bowl if you have one in order to show it off.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

4 large green tomatoes
2 cups cornmeal (not self-rising)
¼ cup cooking oil
Salt and black pepper to taste

Wash tomatoes and pat dry, then cut into ¼ -inch slices. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Coat both sides of each slice with cornmeal and fry on each side on medium heat until golden. Drain on paper towels and serve hot.

Apple Cider Keys Recipe In Lebanon Pie Contest

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The secret's in the cider.

On Monday, Lebanon Area Fair Blue Ribbon Apple Pie contest winner Sheila Donmoyer revealed the key ingredient to her award-winning recipe: use apple cider.

In her case, she couldn't find good, fresh cider in the stores, so she substituted apple juice.

On Sunday morning after milk-

Reduce the Effects of Drought by Irrigating

Adequate soil moisture is essential for good crop growth in August. A healthy plant is composed of 75-90% water. Plants use water for vital functions including photosynthesis, support (rigidity), and transportation of nutrients and sugars to various parts of the plant.

Options for applying water to plants include: a watering can, a garden hose with a fan nozzle or spray attachment for containers, small gardens or individual plants and portable lawn sprinklers, a perforated plastic soaker hose, drip or trickle irrigation, or a semi-automatic drip system for lawns and gardens.

The Virginia Consumer Horticulture Guide to Nutrient Management suggests using these basic techniques and principles for watering.

• Adjust the flow or rate of water application to about one-half inch per hour to avoid causing run-off. To determine the rate for a sprinkler, place small tin cans at various places within the sprinkler's reach, and check the level of water in the cans at 15 minute intervals.

• When using the oscillating type of lawn sprinkler, place the sprinkler on a platform higher than the crop to prevent water from being diverted by plant leaves. Try to keep the watering pattern even by frequently moving the sprinkler and overlapping about one half of each pattern.

• Do not sprinkle foliage in the evening. Wet foliage overnight may encourage disease. Morning watering is preferred.

• Perforated plastic hoses or soaker hoses should be placed with holes down (if there are holes), along one side of the crop row or underneath mulch. Water will slowly soak into the soil.

• Frequent, light waterings will only encourage shallow rooting, causing plants to suffer more quickly during drought periods, especially if mulches are not used. On the other hand, too much water, especially in poorly drained soils, can be as damaging to plant growth as too little water.

Your lawn can use an inch or more of water per week in hot, dry weather. The lawn should be watered when the soil begins to dry out, but before the grass actually wilts. Loss of resilience can be observed when footprints make a long-lasting imprint instead of bouncing right back.

Critical watering periods for selected vegetables include head development for broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower, pod filling for beans and peas; seed emergence and root development for carrots and silking; tasseling and ear development for corn, flowering or fruiting for eggplant and tomatoes; flowering and fruit development for cucumber and melons; head development on lettuce.

Apples By The Slice

WOLCOTT, N.Y. — The apple trees on the hillsides of the 1500-acre Cahoon Farms in Wolcott, NY, are dotted with lots of tiny, new apples. Hundreds of 17-bushel crates lie empty in the long warehouses, waiting for the fall harvest. But, thousands of slices of fresh apples are moving along conveyor belts in Nature's Pleasures, Cahoon's new 7,000 square foot processing plant.

Fresh apples that have been in controlled-atmosphere storage since last fall are cut into wedges, dipped in a solution of ascorbic acid to prevent contamination and browning, blow dried, and packed in modified atmosphere packaging for consumer use using "minimal process" technology. That technology was developed at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, NY, in the laboratory of Cornell University food scientist C.Y. Lee. From dump room to pack-out takes 15 minutes.

In today's run, fresh Granny Smith, Empire and Gala apples are being cut into wedges with the skins on, dipped, dried, and packaged with either caramel or peanut butter dip under colorful labels that feature Bugs Bunny and his Looney Tune friends. The 2.4 oz. fresh-fruit packs are bound for school lunchrooms in Dayton, Philadelphia, Grand Rapids, Chicago, Long Island and New York City.

"We co-pack these apples packs for Tanimura and Antle, Inc.," said third-generation owner Jeff Cahoon "The food service company introduced them last fall to satisfy the federal minimum daily requirement of one-half cup serving of fresh fruit or vegetables in school lunch programs" Perhaps more importantly, kids really eat them. "The reorder rate from school districts is 100 percent," said Cahoon. "They are one of the most popular items on the school menu"

When he isn't co-packing for other companies, Cahoon packages his own Nature's Pleasure product of fresh-cut apples in 2 ounce, 8 ounce and 32 ounce packages. Consumers and food service companies use the larger sizes to make apple pies. He recently negotiated a contract with U.S. Airway to offer the 2 ounce snack-pak—with or without cinnamon—on flights from New York to Boston and Washington, and expects to negotiate a contract with U.S. Air Express out of Dulles in the next month.

Cahoon believes the time is ripe for marketing apples by the slice. "People have been educated about the health benefits of consuming five portions of fruits or vegetables a day With the fast-paced lifestyle, this is an even easier, more convenient way to eat apples," he said.

"We developed the technology for minimal processing using ascorbic acid dip and modified atmosphere packaging in the early '90s," said C. Y. Lee, "but it took several years for commercial adoption by the food industry."

"Cahoon Farms uses a dip of 80,000 ppm of Vitamin C to prevent browning and contamination by microorganisms, followed by a unique method of blow drying and quick cooling that increases the efficacy of Vitamin C on the surface of the dried apple slices," said Lee. The process improves the appearance, maintains apple texture, extends shelf life to about three weeks, and maintains the nutritional benefits Because ascorbic acid is so expensive, food scientists also had to develop a way to pasteurize the Vitamin C dip solution so it could be re-used in processing.

Lee and his group are now conducting research on the antioxidant activity of fresh apples. Lee is a strong believer in the health benefits of fresh fruit consumption—particularly apples—and says there is even stronger evidence that consumers should follow the old adage "an apple a day keeps the doctor away"

Americans consume about 20 pounds of fresh apples and 28 pounds of processed apples per person per year.

QUESTION — A Reinholds reader would like to see lots of recipes using zucchini.

QUESTION — Jeanne Parry, West Chester, would like a recipe for cucumber salad.

QUESTION — Janet Tyson, Felton, would like a recipe for dried corn.

QUESTION — Ina Mikalauskas, Evans City, is looking for recipes for tomato jelly, garlic jam, and pickled garlic.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Littlestown, has a recipe for watermelon pickles that requires slaked lime. Does anyone know what it is and where to buy it? Is hydrated or pickling lime the same thing?

QUESTION — Dixie Fix would like to know where to buy an electric iron to bake New Year's cakes, which are thin European waffles like cake. A regular waffle iron and a Belgian iron make too thick a waffle.

QUESTION — Leora Petet, Hollsopple, is looking for recipes for pecan log and for cherry nut filling for homemade candy.

QUESTION — A reader from Finger Lakes, N.Y., would like a recipe to can together sliced onions and green bell peppers (not pickled). Also, she has heard that hot peppers can be stored in an unsealed jar on the counter covered with oil to use as needed and then use the flavored oil afterwards. Can anyone verify that the hot peppers will not spoil?

QUESTION — Cindy Barta, N. Jackson, Ohio, writes that she made quince jelly last fall. It was her first attempt at making jelly. Some of the jelly turned out fine and jelled nicely. But one batch did not gel. She had read that quince has natural pectin and did not use any pectin in the recipe, which did not call for any. She would appreciate any help or recipe that will make this type of jelly jel.

QUESTION — A Snyder County reader would like a recipe for white chocolate mousse cake.

QUESTION — Marian Harman, Hughesville, would like a recipe for cherry pig, which she thinks is made with bread dough and fresh cherries.

QUESTION — Elaine Fyock, Windber, writes that a recipe for oven pickles processed in the oven at a low temperature and left set overnight appeared in this column last year. She mislaid the recipe and would like it. Did anyone clip it out? Please send it in.

QUESTION — Doris Bobb, Muncy, would like a recipe that had appeared in this paper last year for rhubarb peach jam. Did anyone clip the recipe to which she is referring?

QUESTION — A reader wants a recipe for the brezel.

QUESTION — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants recipes for turkey scrapple and turkey bologna.

ANSWER — Margaret Grieff, Sidman, wanted a recipe to pickle baby corn. Thanks to an anonymous reader who sent a recipe, which she writes is found mainly among the Mennonites of Ontario, Canada.

Pickled Baby Ears Of Corn

Pick 2 quarts baby ears of field corn (not garden varieties) when 2 to 3 inches in length. These tiny ears are formed before the tassel begins to show.

Husk cobs and parboil 3 to 5 minutes. Pack into hot sterilized jars and add a few strips of red, sweet pepper to each jar. Cover with a hot syrup made from the following:

1 cup water
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups white vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon pickling spice (tied in bag)

Seal jars.

ANSWER — Margaret Greiff, Sidman, wanted to know what makes cream pies turn to liquid after the filling is put into the pie. Rachel Zook, Willow Street sent in a recipe that works well for her.

Cream Pie

2¼ cups milk
½ cup sugar
4-5 tablespoons cornstarch
2 egg yolks
8-inch pie shell

Heat milk. Meanwhile mix together cornstarch, sugar, and egg yolks, beat well. Stir egg mixture slowly into heating milk, continue stirring until mixture reaches the boiling point. Make sure you can see bubbles forming in the middle, just before removing from heat.

Cool immediately in cold water, stirring constantly until cold. Pour into 8-inch pie shell and refrigerate.

ANSWER — A reader wanted recipes to use frozen or home canned plums. Thanks to Leora Petet, Hollsopple, for sending a recipe. Readers, more plum recipes are needed.

Plum Rolls

3 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
6 tablespoons butter
¼ cup milk
1 quart prune plums, drained, save juice

Roll dough as for jelly roll and spread with plums. Roll and cut into 12-inch slices. Place cut side facing bottom of oblong cake pan and pour sauce over all.

Sauce:

1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup plum juice
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Bake 35 minutes or longer in a 350 degree oven, if necessary. Baste once in a while.

ANSWER — Mary Louise Starr, Mercersburg, wanted a recipe for frozen strawberry jelly. She also would like a recipe for rhubarb preserve.

Easy Strawberry Jam

2 cups prepared fruit
4 cups sugar
¾ cup water
1 box Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin

Stem and thoroughly crush strawberries, one layer at a time. Measure 2 cups into large bowl.

Measure sugar into separate bowl. Stir sugar with fruit. Set aside for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Mix water and pectin in small saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Continue boiling and stirring for one minute. Stir pectin mixture into fruit mixture. Stir constantly until sugar is dissolved and no longer grainy, about three minutes. You can test it between your fingers.

Fill containers to within ½ -inch of tops. Wipe off top edges and quickly cover with lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Store in refrigerator for 3 weeks or freeze up to one year. Thaw in refrigerator.

ANSWER — Lynda Bell, Lincoln University, sent in this recipe for a great stir-fry sauce requested by a reader.

Stir Fry Sauce

Combine the following:

1 cup hot water
2 tablespoons corn starch
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ to 1 teaspoon salt
1 beef or chicken bouillon cube

CARROT SQUASH BISCUITS

1 cup grated fresh carrots
10-ounce package frozen pureed squash, thawed
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon thyme
3 cups biscuit mix
1 to 3 tablespoons milk
Minced fresh or dry parsley

Blend carrots, squash, butter, and thyme in bowl. Measure biscuit mix over and mix just until flour is blended in. Add milk if necessary to get a sticky dough. It may have some lumps. Drop by rounded tablespoons measures onto lightly oiled baking sheets into 18 portions. Sprinkle with parsley. Bake on a rack just above, oven center at 425 degrees for 14 to 16 minutes or until golden but not too browned on bottom. Makes 18.

GLORIFIED CABBAGE

1 medium head cabbage
1 green pepper, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
½ cup butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
½ pound grated sharp cheese
4-ounce can whole mushrooms
Dash tabasco
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

Boil cabbage until barely tender. Drain and chop. Saute green pepper and onion in butter until soft. Add cabbage, soup, cheese, mushrooms, and seasonings. Combine thoroughly and place in 1½ -2-quart greased casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6-8.

TWO-CABBAGE STIR FRY

1 cup thinly sliced red cabbage
1 cup thinly sliced green cabbage
1 tablespoon rice vinegar
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 teaspoon chopped fresh ginger root
1 small onion, chopped

In a small dish, mix together vinegar, water, soy sauce, and cornstarch; set aside. In wok or heavy skillet, heat oil over medium heat. Add ginger and onion; stir fry one minute. Add both kinds of cabbage and stir fry until tender, 3 to 5 minutes. Pour in soy sauce mixture and stir fry until liquid comes to a boil, about 1 minute. Serve hot. Makes 3 servings.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our gardens are growing rapidly this year. But, so are the weeds that sprout under the melons and squash. When I hoe the garden on the farm, our seven-year-old grandson often helps me. He will hold up the vines while I hoe under them. Actually, it does not seem so long ago that his father did the same thing for me.

Bradley, the seven-year-old, is a good helper and can hoe a row faster than I can. Although, I can stick to the job longer. Usually I reward the grandchildren's help with a little candy. They do look forward to my getting in the car to go home as that is when they can expect the candy.

This year I've been giving away quite a few vegetables. Our neighbors from the nearby development, who walk the road everyday, are often stopped and asked if they could use a big head of Chinese cabbage or zucchini. Of course, they would sooner have a bag of green beans or a dozen ears of sweet corn.

Groundhogs have gotten into two of our gardens. So, we will not have cauliflower or broccoli. They did leave a few peanut plants but cotton, which was started in the basement, has been completely wiped out. Recently, a farmer told me that he caught some 90 groundhogs on his farm in the last year.

Our farm family have returned from a ten-day vacation in Nova Scotia. They traveled with a pop-up trailer and covered some 3,000 miles. I'm thinking that the three children, ages seven and two, will not remember the trip very much. However, I do remember when I was eight and my grandparents took me on a three-day trip to Watkins Glen in New York. We used an open touring car and when it rained we got wet. Some fun!

Cider Keys Recipe In Lebanon Pie Contest

ing the cows at the Harpers farm, Sheila began baking the "Hoosier Apple Pie" recipe, which includes peeled, tart apples, cinnamon, and brown sugar.

After baking, she left the pie cool and placed it in a container, then brought it to the Lebanon Fair. There a panel of judges taste-tested samples from half a dozen pies entered in the baking contest.

Sheila said she has entered other championships before, but this was a first at the Lebanon Area Fair.

"I bake apple pies for all of the family at home," she said. "They just like this pie."

Son John, 9, said the pie was his favorite, which he enjoys just like it is. He said he likes her apple crisp and cherry crisp, too. Katie, 6, said her mom uses apples in a lot of different pastries.

Sheila said she also used a cookie cutter to create the "heart" effect in the pie crust.

According to Letie Schadler, Lebanon extension agent and a coordinator of the contest, judges appreciated the "good flavor and good crust" of the champion.

Second-place winner was Joan Martin, Lebanon, and third went to Connie Knauss, Myerstown.

Judges for the apple pie contest were Sam Hayes, state secretary of agriculture; Rep. Peter Zug; and Brian Peffley, pastry arts instructor at the Lebanon Career and Technology Center and formerly head pastry chef at the Hershey Hotel.

Apple cider was key ingredient to this first-place apple pie.

HOOSIER APPLE PIE

9-inch double crust
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter flavor Crisco
6 cups peeled tart apples
3 tablespoons apple cider or juice
Glaze
Milk
Granulated sugar

Heat oven to 325 degrees. For filling, combine brown sugar and granulated sugar, flour, and cinnamon. Cut in crisco with fork until crumbs form. Toss apples with crumbs. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle cider over apples. Glaze top with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 325 degrees for 45-55 minutes.

Second Place:

CRANBERRY APPLE PIE

Filling:
¼ cup cornstarch
2 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon orange juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
5 cups sliced tart apples (McIntosh)
2 cups cranberries (fresh or frozen)
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry for double-crust pie (9 inches)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In large bowl, combine the first seven ingredients. Pare and slice apples.

Add apples and cranberries to mixture (toss gently). Pour into a 9-inch pie shell. Dot with butter.

Add pastry. Top-pierce with fork. Flute the edges. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees. Bake 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

Third Place:

CANDY APPLE PIE

6 cups thinly sliced peeled baking apples
2 tablespoon lime juice
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon or nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
Pastry for double-crust pie (9 inches)
2 tablespoons butter
Topping:
¼ cup butter
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons heavy cream
½ cup chopped pecans

In a large bowl, toss apples with lime juice. Combine dry ingredients; add to the apples and toss lightly. Place bottom pastry in a 9-inch pie plate, and fill with apple mixture. Dot with butter. Cover with top crust. Flute edges high, cut steam vents. Bake at 400 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until golden brown and apples are tender. Meanwhile, for topping, melt butter in a small saucepan. Stir in brown sugar and cream. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and stir in pecans. Pour over top crust. Return to the oven for 3-4 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm. Yields 8 servings.

Rabbits, Even A Hedgehog, Are Part Of Lebanon Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Josh Seaman, 9, carefully held up the hedgehog.

"You gotta be careful how you pet it," said Josh, smoothing out its light brown and white, porcupine-like coat.

Josh said that if you pet it the wrong way, "the coat can hurt a little." Like pine needles, the hedgehog's protective coat keeps predators out of the way.

Alex Seaman, Josh's cousin, said the hedgehog won't attack you. "But it could bite you if you throw it around," he said.

The Seamans were busy checking out the different petting zoo displays, in addition to a huge corn tepee, Monday morning at the Lebanon Area Fair.

Alex, 10, a Lebanon County 4-H livestock club member, showed about 18 rabbits in the fair contest. Alex said he brought a lot of different breeds to the fair, including Flemish Giants, Red Rex, White New Zealands, and Red New Zealands.

Alex held up a yearling Red Rex doe, which won best variety and first place.

At the busy petting zoo, on display was a huge rabbit that looked like a big Chinchilla, said Alex, along with a Vietnamese pot-bellied pig. Josh and Alex also showed off Dalmatian and white mice, hermit crabs, a guinea pig, and other animals.

The petting zoo featured a young donkey, pygmy goats, lambs, and other animals.

Also, Olivia Richards, 7, daughter of Linda and Jim Richards, Annville, showed off "Herman," a Russia rabbit. Along with her was Julie Funck, 6, daughter of Cliff and Lori Funck, Annville.

North Mountain 4-H members take Tuffy, a four-month old donkey, and a pygmy goat for a walk at the fair.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Mary Louise Starr, Mercersburg, wanted a recipe for frozen strawberry preserves. Thanks to a faithful reader for sending the following:

Frozen Strawberry Jam
(uncooked)

4 cups crushed fresh strawberries
1 package fruit pectin (SureJell)
1 cup corn syrup
5½ cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Crush strawberries and sift in fruit pectin. Stir well. Let set 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add syrup and sugar, mixing well. Warm very slightly, just to melt sugar. Add lemon juice. Pour into jars and freeze.

ANSWER — Bob Snyder, Akron, Ohio, wanted to know how to freeze corn on the cob. Thanks to a faithful reader who writes that corn frozen on the cob tends to be more watery, but is good for something different on a winter day. Here are her instructions.

Frozen Corn On The Cob

Blanch ears of corn for 2½ to 3½ minutes and cool quickly. Place in plastic bags and freeze.

Earl Thoman, Railroad, writes that he picks corn before 9 a.m., in order to retain its sugar, then simply puts the corn into a plastic shopping bag and freezes it until ready to use.

ANSWER — Michelle McBride, Northampton, wanted recipes to use mulberries, which grows on her farm. Thanks to Arvilla Keeny, New Freedom, who writes that mulberries are not tart at all and to make a delicious dessert, mulberries need to mixed with a tart fruit such as rhubarb, cherries, gooseberries, etc. or add a little lemon juice. Here is a recipe she uses.

Berry Pie

⅔ -1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch or 4 tablespoon flour
Dash salt
2 cups mulberries
1 cup tart fruit of your choice
9-inch pie crust
1 tablespoon butter

Mix sugar, cornstarch or flour, and salt. Sprinkle over fruit in pie crust (or mix with fruit, then put in crust). Dot with butter. Adjust top crust. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes.

ANSWER — In the response for watermelon drinks requested by a reader, here is one from Mrs. David Ferguson, Herrick Center. Also, more recipes can be received by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to The National Watermelon Promotion Board, P.O. Box 140065, Orlando, FL 32814-0065.

Watermelon Cocktail

4½ pounds watermelon
2½ teaspoons vanilla extract
¼ cup powdered sugar or to taste
½ cup light or dark rum or to taste
Lime wedges for garnish

Cut watermelon flesh from the rind and cut flesh into 2-inch chunks removing the seeds. This will yield about 5 cups watermelon. In a food processor or in blender, combine watermelon chunks, vanilla, and sugar. Process to a sluch, about 2 minutes. Strain through a fine sieve and discard solids. Stir in rum. Pour into glasses over ice and garnish with lime wedges. Serves 4.

Migrant Students Compose Song

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) – Migrant education middle and high school students of Kennett are set to record a song that they composed about their lives.

"Retumba Y Truena" was created as a project resulting from a four part series on creativity.

Musician and composer, Juan Avila, an American born son of Mexican migrant parents from the Yucatan, and Penn State Cooperative extension staff facilitated musical improvisation and poetry Students were encouraged to revisit their roots, acknowledge their feelings, and express their hope for the future

Penn State University Agricultural Sciences and National Character Counts curricula were used to help students problem-solve through the creative process

Audio Visions of Delaware are scheduled to record Retumba Y Truena at the Mary D. Lang Elementary School on Tuesday, July 28

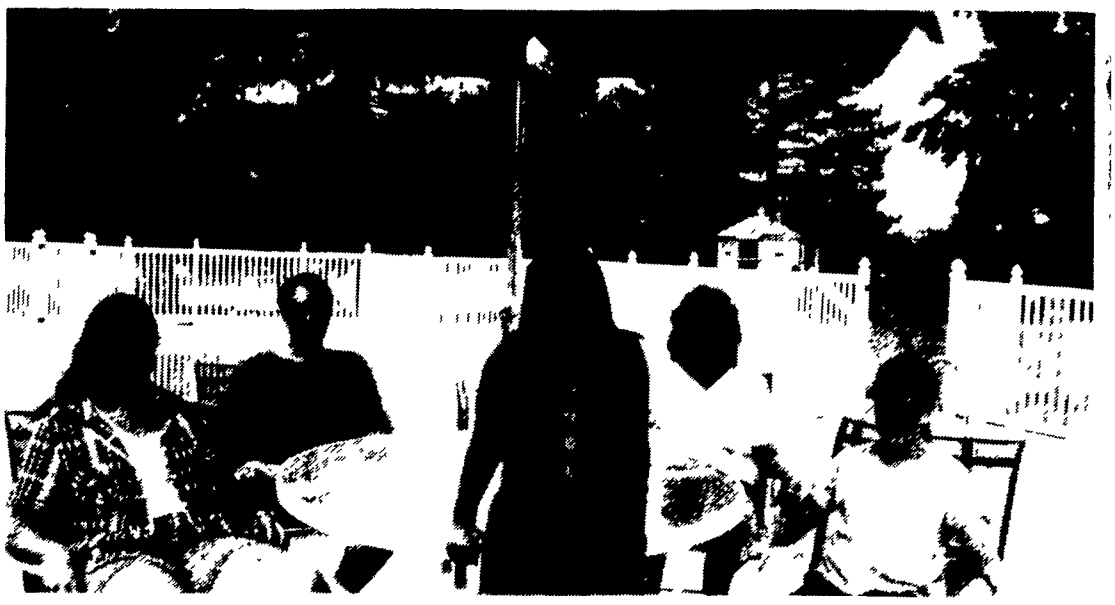
Life With The Hoovers



Instead of taking a family vacation one year, the Hoovers put in a swimming pool, which has proved to be a sound investment for promoting family togetherness in between farm chores.

how to process information.

Not only do the Hoovers attend numerous agriculture-related seminars, they also send full and part-time employees.

Their reasons for investing in seminars for their hired help is two-fold. Hoover said, "We want a life for our family. We also want a life for our help's families."

Another reason is the awareness that farmers need to compete for the labor market.

As farm employers, he believes it is necessary to offer comparable benefits as that of non-farming occupations.

"We have excellent help and we want to keep them," he said.

While the farm is run like a business, the Hoovers strive to keep farm and farming in perspective.

"We don't want to be workaholics but enjoy life as we go along," said Hoover.

Top priority for the couple is to build family relationships. Music, relaxing in the family swimming pool, vacationing, and participating in church, farming, and community activities are part of the family togetherness.

Church activities are a prime commitment for family members. Hoover is chairman of the administrative board at the Limeville United Methodist Church. Carole is director of the church preschool program, and participates in choir and a Bible study group.

The couple serve as leaders of the Pequea Valley 4-H Dairy Club. Carole also is a 4-H leader for the beginner's sewing leader and is secretary of the county dairy princess promotion committee.

"I like to be involved with things where my children are active," Carole said. At her children's schools, Carole is a room parent, a soccer mom, and helps with the music booster's band and chorus. She cares for the large house and a big yard.

Daughter Jill is a dairy ambassador and both she and her sister Brenda are former dairy darlings for county dairy promotion.

Jill is a 10th grade FFA student at Pequea Valley High school, where she is a member of marching band, chorus, and the soccer team. She is president of both the 4-H dairy and community clubs. She also takes piano lessons and plays the bells, bassoon, and clarinet. At church she helps with kids programs and is a member of the church youth group.

Brenda is in sixth grade at Conestoga Christian Day School. She also plays soccer, piano, and flute and is active in 4-H dairy and community clubs.

Leslie is in second grade at Salisbury Elementary School. She likes living on a farm, playing with kittens, swinging on a rope from the barn rafters and jumping in cottonseed when stored in the barn

"I still find time to visit my family in State College," Carole said of overnight trips in which she usually takes one or all of the children along.

Hoover finds time to accompany his wife to State College during football season. He said, "I married into a family that has "blue and white blood." As a dairy production graduate of Penn State, Hoover enjoys having season football tickets and tailgating with his wife's family at the game. The Hoovers spend overnight visits during the season.

Although it is difficult to manage time off from demanding farm schedules, the Hoovers believe the gain is well worth it.

They have one full-time employee and two part-time high school students. The children help with farm chores every other weekend. Although he was raised the old-fashioned way of seldom taking off from farm chores, Hoover now makes it a priority to take every other weekend off and to take annual vacations.

This past year, they combined the family vacation with the Land O' Lakes board meeting in Minnesota.

This summer Gordon and daughter Jill participated in Appalachian Service Project. The Hoovers traveled with seven team members from their church to join about 60 other volunteers in a Kentucky.

"We stayed at a school, where we had two showers for 60 people," Jill said.

The volunteers repaired mobile homes for low-income families. They replaced skirting, patching roofs, replaced windows and floors, and other upgrading jobs.

Although Jill did not have previous carpentry experience, she said, "I have a pretty good hit with a hammer."

"I got to see how other people lived. Some homes looked great but right next to it would be a pathetic dump where a family lived. It helps me appreciate what I have."

The father and daughter team said that at first they were tempted to be critical of the way many of the Appalachian population spent their money.

"They would have a falling down house with no indoor plumbing, yet have a satellite dish and a big screen T.V.," Jill said.

A person who grew up in this environment explained that this happens because of the easy availability of the buy now, pay later policy. Residents can't get a loan to install indoor plumbing, but it's easy to purchase a television and satelite dish on credit.

"They have the same desires as we do, but it's more difficult to attain them," Hoover said. "They buy what's easiest to obtain."

Hoover is a former president of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau. He serves on the legislative committee for Sen. Noah Wenger. When he was elected to the board of directors for Alantic Dairy Cooperative, Hoover slowed down his involvement with the Farm Bureau. With the recent merger, Hoover's involvement with ADC was transferred to the board of Land O' Lakes, where he is now secretary of the board.

Although firm believers in the advantages of volunteering for farm organizations, the Hoovers know it is a huge challenge to find the time for farm, community, and church involvement.

"People are more independent. It's hard to get people involved in volunteering time, but it's important to remember that many of these farm organizations have brought us a long way. Many are not aware what those organizations did for us (farmers). Some want to reinvent the wheel instead of promoting a spirit of cooperation, and by doing so gives farmers more negative competition."

Hoover thinks it's important to understand the reason behind laws and why policies need to be modified. He pointed out that the government got involved in agriculture pricing in order to guarantee adequate food at an affordable price for everyone.

"Many of the same farmers who were screaming 'get the government out now,' are the same ones who are now screaming to get the government back into it to protect market prices," he said.

Hoover believes agriculture must go through a culling process in order for law of supply and demand to stabilize prices.

The Hoovers are grateful that in the early 1980s they were selected as former participants in ADC's Young Couples Program and in the National Milk Producer's Young Couples Program.

"We were exposed to other farming techniques and young couples facing the same challenges we are," Carole said.

For 15 years, they have been part of an advisory council, which is made up of couples about the same age who get together and discuss isses and send it recommendations for legislation. The council started with six couples. Today only two couples are active in farming.

The Hoovers admit that the lifestyle of having a freer schedule is appealing and generates a lot of peer pressure when attempting to socialize with those from non-farming occupations. Socializing with the non-farming community forces the Hoovers to be more eight to five o'clock, a goal that the Hoovers see as beneficial to their quality of life.

At the same time, Hoover doesn't think that being the only farm couple at church and many community functions is isolating.

"What career outside of agriculture is one we can't relate to?" he asks then answers his own question. "We certainly relate to those with their own businesses. We relate to those who work with computers, to the bench chemist, to the financial manager, to the mechanic. . . ."

"It's always been my dream to farm and to own the farm," Hoover said. At the same time, he believes it is important to encourage children who want to take over the family farm to get away from it and look at the farm from a different perspective.

As a college student and as a member of the National Dairy Science Club, Hoover received a different perspective on farming that he believes has made him a better manager and farmer than he would have been without those experiences.

Although he's lived on the farm all his life, the thrill of the history surrounding the farm still brings a sense of intrigue to Hoover. Within eyesight of the place is the oldest mill in the U.S. The mill, which still has its original stone walls, is said to have been commandeered during the Civil and Spanish Wars to make gun powder and undercarriages for cannons. Also nearby is a farm used as a boys's school, which was later moved to N.J., and is said to be the beginnings of Princeton University.

Building family relationships is a top priority for Gordon and Carole Hoover with daughters, Jill, 15; Brenda, 11; and Leslie, 7. "We don't want to be work alholics but enjoy life as it goes along," Hoover said.

Teachers Taught Ag Awareness

Awareness Foundation of Pennsylvania. The theme of this year's workshop was "Travel the Harvest Highway" and its main goal was to help teachers educate America's youth about agriculture.

The teachers came from urban, suburban, and rural backgrounds Many of the teachers came from urban areas to gain hands-on experience about Pennsylvania's number one industry Everyone had an enjoyable introduction to the week by hearing John Rodger's speech about the "Thresholds of New Frontiers " The group then journeyed to the Penn State Ag Arena to meet farm animals up close. The 4-H youth of Mifflin County proudly showed and explained the animal's attributes.

During the remainder of the week, teachers attend classes covering many ag-related topics They learned how agriculture is the keystone to civilization and how to find ag topics using the internet

Workshops covered a variety of topics like "Seed Sense," "Hydroponics," and "Barnyard Basics "

The participants had a wonderful opportunity to take field trips to a family-operated dairy farm, a fruit farm that uses integrated pest management, the Mushroom House, and the Penn State Dairy Research Center

The evenings were spend enjoying a pig roast, a pizza party, a banquet, making tin can ice cream, and visiting the Pasto Farm Museum Each teacher received many ideas and materials to take back to their classrooms to use with their students.

FFA
BUILDING THE FUTURE

FFA Member Wins State Diversified Crop Production-Placement Award

Andy Engle of Cochranville and a member of Lancaster Mennonite High School's Hans Herr FFA Chapter was named the State FFA Diversified Crop Production - Placement winner and received a $100 check at the state FFA convention. State winners will advance to competition for national finalist.

National finalists will each receive a plaque and a $250 check and are eligible to participate in an educational international travel seminar in June of 1999. The national winner will be selected from this group and will receive an additional plaque and a $250 check.

The Diversified Crop Production Placement Proficiency award program recognizes outstanding FFA members for their ability to efficiently produce and market a combination of two or more crop enterprises such as cereal or feed grain, forage, oil or fiber crops. It is one of 42 national award areas that recognize FFA members for achievement in activities leading to careers in agriculture.

The Diversified Crop Production - Placement award program is sponsored by National Crop Insurance Services; AgrEvo; and Rain and Hail — The Crop Insurance Leader as a special award of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

'Rodeoing' Delights Lebanon Fair Queen

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — When you attend a rodeo, you are "rodeoing," said Rebecca Shirk, newly crowned Lebanon Fair queen.

When you attend a rodeo, you are "rodeoing," said Rebecca Shirk, newly crowned Lebanon Fair queen. Rebecca, 20, is the daughter of Wendy and Dennis Shirk, Palmyra.

On Tuesday at the fair she spoke about one of the favorite events she likes to attend with her friends from 4-H. She also spoke about what it was like to finally wear the crown.

Rebecca, 20, daughter of Wendy and Dennis Shirk, Palmyra, often dreams about what it would be like to own a small farm and raise horses, in addition to other livestock.

That's what draws her to being a Lebanon Fairgoer. Last Saturday, some of her dreams were realized when she finally wore the coveted crown.

Rebecca, a 1997 graduate of Palmyra High School, works as a food preparer at Basket Deli in Palmyra, creating some great sandwiches and deli treats. She has dreamed of wearing the fair tiara and the spotlight it provides since she ran for the first time last year, only to be bested by Jessica Watson, state fair queen first runner-up.

Last year, her attempts to become queen didn't go too well. "I went into it blind," Rebecca said.

This time, Rebecca knew what what to expect. She remembered the stomach butterflies. She remembered how nervous she was, how ill-prepared she may have been to the questions posed by the master of ceremonies, and the impromptu answers that were expected.

At the competition last Saturday, Rebecca contributed in a big way. "I helped calm the other girls down, because I know what it was like," she said. "We get pretty nervous."

This year, she answered an impromptu question: What would she do about racism?

Living in a town with few minorities, she learned from her parents and her church, Gravel Hill United Methodist, about tolerance and patience and understanding. She already has seen racism firsthand. Her answer was, "to put everyone in a room and turn the lights out and learn how to talk to each other. People are more than the color of their skin," she said. "It is important to look beyond the personal appearance."

Another answer was a five-minute speech about why people should come to the fair. Rebecca's answer: "I would advertise for the fair," she said. "I would talk about the different events at the fair, what the family could do here."

She said her speech centers on the family. "The fair is more fun when you see kids with their mom and dad," she said. "I like the atmosphere of the fair — the people, and just being here."

Rebecca said she enjoys talking with people and getting to see the different events. Her favorite is rodeo, but she enjoys line dancing and "learning about different animals," she said.

Someday, she said, she wants to live on a farm.

"I am saving money to buy some land, to maybe buy a little farm with a couple of animals, some acres, maybe with some horses and beef cattle, lambs — a little bit of everything," she said.

Rebecca spoke about how when she was younger, she remembers how much farmland her town contained. Now, it's all built up.

"And the kids in school complain about how it smells — the smell was part of growing up in a farm town," she said.

Rebecca is 4-H leader with the Little Critters 4-H, which has show rabbits.

But horses and rodeos fill her dreams.

Rebecca recalls with delight the 4-H Rodeo at the Farm show Complex during Farm Show Week.

How To Plant Front Porch Pots

You don't have to mimic ready-made porch pots or hanging baskets to have a lovely eye-catcher for your front stoop. In fact, the plants you choose is a reflection of your own creativity.

There are a few pointers to keep in mind, though, The guiding principle for creating container displays is to select and mix plants that will thrive in their final location, said Connie Smith, an Ohio State University horticulturist. So, pots in a sunny locale should have plants that like sun; pots in the shade should have shade plants. Knowing this simple guideline will help you avoid another common beginner's mistake–mixing sun and shade plants together is a definite no-no.

Herbs, such as golden lemon thyme, make ideal low-maintenance fillers for pots in sunny locations, Smith said. Plus, they mix very well with scented geraniums for an unusual scented pot. As an added bonus, herbs are tolerant of mild drought–from when you forget to water them.

Another good filler for sunny location pots is the colorful portulaca or moss rose.

Verbena, calendula, snapdragon, geranium, alyssum and dianthus are at the top of Smith's sunny location, no-work annuals. They need very little deadheading (pinching back the flower head so the plant remains full) and also are forgiving to the forgetful waterer. For height in sunny locations, try blue salvia, such as the Strata or Victoria varieties.

Petunias are great for color – in or out of pots –but have to be pruned. Smith prunes back her petunias when she plants them, on the 4th of July and again on Labor Day to increase their flowering and keep the stems from growing out of control.

For filler in shaded pots, try lobelia, which has a pretty blue color. As for accent flowers, impatiens are a tried-and-true standard for shade. But, take a look at the different varieties of impatiens available. Some impatiens look like miniature roses, and the New Guinea species offers dark green, broad-leafed foliage. For height and unusual leaf color and texture, consider planting brightly colored coleus

Don't overlook standard houseplants, Smith said. Spider plants are great in hanging plants, as well as the trailing form of dusty miller and many forms of ivy Sweet potato vine also offers a different leaf texture than the standard vinca vine. (Trailing vines add fullness and depth to your pots, so don't forget to include them)

You can plant a porch pot in anything you like, from terra cotta pots and plastic or wood containers to an old shoe or an interesting bucket. Just be sure the container has a drainage hole – and if it doesn't have one, drill it yourself

Don't use garden soil or top soil in containers. These heavy soils retain too much moisture which causes root rot. And the soil gets hard as rock with watering. Your potting soil should be a soilless mix of ingredients that helps hold moisture, yet won't become waterlogged.

Ready-made mix is convenient to buy, but if you have a lot of pots to fill, you can make your own. A typical recipe is one part peat moss, one part perlite and three parts sifted compost. This works well for balcony and rooftop gardens because it's light, but perlite can be costly If weight isn't a consideration, substitute coarse sand for the perlite.

The trick is to create a happy medium between a well-drained pot that doesn't hold excessive water and a pot that needs to be watered every single day, Smith said She puts a cut-up piece of sponge or a clean, disposable diaper in the bottom of containers to hold moisture Also, when using terra cotta pots, she coats the inside lightly with vegetable oil so moisture evaporates more slowly

Finally, container planters are the one place where you can ignore spacing recommendations. Pact the plants in tight, Smith said, to help retain moisture.

Emily O'Hara Reigns As Frederick Farm Queen

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

JEFFERSON, Md. — Emily O'Hara, the daughter of Eddie and Kay O'Hara of Frederick, was named 1998 Frederick County Farm Queen at the contest held at the Ruritan Center here Emily received her tiara from Diane Ogg, the outgoing queen Kathy DeHart, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Kenenth and Nancy DeHart of Frederick, was named runner-up in the pageant.

Leanne Mayne, the daughter of Merhl and Charlotte Mayne of Buckeystown, and Dana Wilt, the daughter of Robert Wilt and Gloria Blickenstaff of Frederick, also competed in the contest, sponsored each year by the Frederick County Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau women's committee. The Frederick County Young Farmers awarded cash prizes to the young ladies.

For eighteen-year-old Emily, the road to becoming country farm queen started about 15 years ago As not much more than a toddler, the dairy farmer's daughter charmed the audience and judges and won the county's Little Farmerette contest with a poem she recited again here for the crowd. "I'm Moo Moo the cow, I eat lots of hay; I lay in the meadow for most of the day. My milk is so good, it doesn't take long for all little children to grow big and strong."

Emily said she was so awestruck by the farm queen, who she spoke with that day years ago when she was crowned Little Farmerette, that she set her sights then and there on someday becoming farm queen herself.

"My dream to become Frederick County farm queen began with this poem," she said, "As a little girl I competed in the Little Farmerette contest and won The queen that spoke to me that day was so amazing that I set my sights on becoming her in the future "

Emily proved to herself and a crowd of over 120 people that she had what it took to achieve that goal. And she also made it clear that she has the kind of character and drive that will probably impress future generations of little girls as a role model of what an advocate of agriculture can accomplish when she sets her mind to it.

While she maintained her ability to enchant the audience with her delightful smile, during the past 15 years Emily has also been busy putting together a string of agricultural successes that has taken her around the nation and even to Annapolis, Maryland to speak before the House of Representatives and the Senate. All the while she has been grounded in the tradition of hard work on her family's dairy farm, and has also managed to rise to the academic top of her graduating class at Frederick High School.

Emily lives on a 200-acre dairy, Hara-Vale Farm, near Frederick, where 80 registered Holsteins put the milk in the tank. She helps with the milking and fieldwork, and is also responsible for keeping herd health records. The family raises their own replacement heifers, and maintains a herd of dairy steers. Emily has cut back on her farm chores recently because she has taken the job of teller at a local bank.

She graduated this year in the top five percent of her class of 470 at Frederick High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society, the volleyball team, and was an accounting tutor. Emily said attending Frederick High has given her insight into how important is to educate the non-farming public about the importance of agriculture. "Being raised on a farm has helped me witness first hand how important agriculture is to life. By attending Frederick High I have noticed how many young adults do not realize what farming and agriculture does for them. My goal is to teach all who do not understand what farming is and what it does for the world," she explained.

She has found time to be active in both FFA and 4-H, and has distinguished herself in both. During her senior year Emily was president of the Frederick FFA chapter, and was selected FFA state ambassador, an honor that will take her to the national convention this fall.

In 4-H her projects have included floriculture and public speaking. She has also enjoyed being a member of the 4-H exchange club, where she had the opportunity to travel to California and North Dakota.

Emily's dedication to the dairy industry is evident in her reign this past year as Maryland Dairy Princess. Being state dairy princess offered Emily the opportunity to reach a wide variety of people with her message about the importance of nature's most nearly perfect food She proved she could get the message across equally well to groups as diverse as school children and politicians.

Emily O'Hara, daughter of Eddie and Kay O'Hara of Frederick, is the new Frederick County farm queen.

Not least of all, she took her message to the house of Representatives and the Senate. When Delegate Paul Stull, who was born and raised on a dairy farm, sponsored a bill to make milk the official drink of Maryland, Emily got involved. She decided to bake cookies and pass them out to the politicians to make them thirsty for milk.

"I started in the House, and I worked my way up until I made it to the Senate," she said.

After passing out the home-made chocolate chip cookies, the politicians craved something to drink. And of course, there was Emily, offering them a refreshing glass of milk.

The bill passed.

"They all told me that they loved it," said Emily, "and that's what made milk Maryland's state drink." Emily also testified in Annapolis in favor of the Northeast Dairy Compact legislation.

Entertainment for the farm queen pageant was provided by David and Darin Gordon, with Amy Huffer on piano, and by soloist Andrea Hood. Judges included Joan Myers, Carroll County Farm Bureau women's committee chairperson; Glenn Shirley, president of Carroll County Farm Bureau; and Jeff Semler, 4-H Agent from Washington County.

Kimberton Fair Holds Massive Goat Competition

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — With 134 goats entered in the Kimberton Fair competition, Alice Orzechowski, judge for the recent event, said, "This show is extremely competitive, especially the Alpine classes."

Judged for general appearance, body capacity, dairy character, and mammary system, the goats were showed to their best advantage by the 18 exhibitors, dressed in all white according to official requirements.

The Alpine Junior Champion, showned by veteran goat breeder Joan Stump, was Stump Hollow K&V Linnet. The champion is the daughter of a senior doe, which has been named best of show 15 times.

"I'm pleased to see that she's done so well. I need a replaced for her mom since she's nearing retirement," Stump said.

Stump and her husband Harold raise an average of 20 head with 12 milking goats at Stump Hollow in Telford. Goat milk is used in their household and the excess fed to pigs. Stump Hollow offers buck service and sells offspring.

Consistent winners were Crystal and Brant Kloiber, who brought 25 head of Alpines and LaManchas to the fair. They left three more does and five bucks at their parents' four-acre plot in Northampton County.

Crystal expressed surprise that a yearling that she purchased from Texas last fall took championship titles in senior and junior recorded grades division.

Other than that one, the remainder head are homebred at the herd's Peach Valley home, and won numerous ribbons throughout the show.

About nine years ago, Crystal began showing goats as 4-H projects. Now in her senior year at Wilson College, where she is studying vet technology, Crystal continues to show goats.

She said, "Goats are friendly sociable, with wonderful personalities. I had horses but they are too big and I tried sheep but they are too anti-social."

The reserve junior champion went to Prinet Magnolie D.V. Lilly owned by Jess Bohmier. The 13-year-old showed the 4-H junior champion and reserve champion in 4-H and open shows. The Alpines also garned championship ribbons in that breed.

Jess raises about 17 Alpines at her parents' Sharon and Tim Bohmier's New London farm.

Chris McGinnes, 15, of Souderton, showed the reserve grand champion for recorded grades and the grand champion and reserve grand champion in 4-H competition for all other purebreds.

The McGinnes raise 24 LaManchas, Alpine, and recorded grades at their Daffodil Dairy.

"We started by showing dairy cows and thought we might as well

Keep Your Kitchen Clutter Free and Safe

The kitchen is one of the most used rooms in the house, so it's easy for clutter to build up. Take the time to analyze and reorganize, and the result will be a cleaner, more efficient kitchen.

If something hasn't been used in two years, it is probably unnecessary. Get rid of it or move it to another storage area. Seasonal items such as holiday platters or cookie cutters, or rarely used items, such as large serving platters, can also be stored someplace else. So they are not "out of sight/out of mind," list these items and their new location in a small notebook.

Take advantage of space-saving storage accessories, such as wall grids, under cabinet hooks, lift-out trays for deep drawers, under-cabinet mountings for small appliances, or back-of-door racks and towel bars for placemat storage. To encourage family members to put things back, store items near where they are used: cups and coffee canister near the coffee pot, for instance.

Plastic containers that are specially designed for food storage offer convenience and versatility. As an alternative to bulky boxes and bags or breakable glass, they have many advantages, including airtight seals to keep food fresh and bugs out, easy-on/easy-off lids, and a large variety of sizes and function-specific shapes. In addition, the units stack for easy storage and the contents are easily visible. When not in use, both lids and bases can be nested to save space. These containers are mostly dishwasher, freezer and microwave safe. But, because they can get very hot in the microwave, be sure there are good size handles. And remember these containers should never be used on a stovetop burner or in a conventional oven.

Wash new containers before using them, using a hand dishwashing detergent or putting them in the dishwasher. For stubborn stain removal, soak in a concentrated solution of hand dishwashing detergent and water. Be aware that some acidic foods may cause staining.

Most businesses use their inventories on what is called the FIFO basis — First In/First Out. You should keep this idea in mind when checking on your collection of canned goods and packaged goods on your kitchen cabinet or pantry shelves. Date your food items to assure that you are not keeping foods for too long. Use the foods while they are still at peak quality and nutritious.

Canned foods should be wiped off before opening. Dust accumulates and will be introduced into the food you are going to use.

Check all the food you have in storage about once a month. Discard anything that seems spoiled. Do not taste it first. As with any food product "When in doubt, throw it out!"

Goat Competition

have goats too," Chris said of the family's interest in goats.

Showmanship awards were won by Jessica Bohmier, junior competition; Joe Batchelper, intermediate winner; and Grant Klobier, senior division.

Showmanship winners excel when they are able to show individual goats to the best advantage.

"Not only must they show their own animal but also be able to lead someone else's animal and show it to the best advantage," the judge said. Showmanship also includes judging on the grooming, clipping, and bathing of the goats to give a neat appearance.

Lancaster 4-H'ers Hold Fashion Revue

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – Katie Ranck, Leola; Carrie Singleton, New Holland; Tanya Aument, Quarryville; and Holly Hoover, Ephrata, will participate in the State 4-H Fashion Revue to be held on August 5, at Eisenhower Auditorium on the University Park Campus of Penn State University, as part of Penn State Achievement Days.

The theme of this year's program is "Picture Perfect." As finalists from the Capital Region Fashion Revue held July 9, in Harrisburg, Katie, Carrie, Tanya and Holly will compete with 60 other 4-H'ers for a place in the state honors group. At the state revue, a panel of professional judges selects 10 finalists. The entrants are judged on garment construction, fit, degree of construction difficulty, appropriateness of garment for 4-H'er and modeling ability.

By participating in the series of county, regional, and state revues, 4-H textiles and science project members have a chance to turn self-consciousness into self-confidence. They learn about wardrobe selection, the importance of good posture, physical fitness and other aspects of grooming. Penn State's Cooperative Extension coordinates the 4-H program in Pennsylvania.

Honors awards receiving blue ribbons were Betsy Ranck, Mary Quigg, Rebekah Sangry, Rebecca Graybill, and Jennifer Henson. Winners of gold awards included Christie Keller, Cara Hershey, Emily Kilby, Melissa Brower, and Shannon Gish.

Blue honors awards in the senior division were given to Sarah Graybill, Renee Mendenhall, Sarah Quigg, Amy Martin, and Rachel Buckwalter. Winners in the senior division gold included Megan Holloway, Amy Strickler, Carrie Singleton, Katie Ranck, Renee Hoover, Holly Hoover, and Tanya Aument.

Stump Hollow K&V Linnet is the Alpine Junior Champion shown by veteran goat breeder Joan Stump. The champion is the daughter of a senior doe, which has been named best of show 15 times.

Fortunate Fairgoer Finds $31,827 At The Maryland State Fair

Last year, one fortunate Maryland State Fair visitor walked up to the Maryland State Comptroller's Unclaimed Property Booth and walked away with the knowledge that he was owed and would receive $31,827 in unclaimed stock proceeds. This year, the Unclaimed Property Booth will return to the State Fair from Saturday, Aug. 29 to Monday, Sept. 7, 1998 from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. in the Exhibition Hall.

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein's representatives will be on hand with computer hookups that allow fairgoers to enter their names and find out if they are the owners of unclaimed funds being held by the state. In 1997 alone, out of the 12,652 fairgoers who entered their names, 870 found leads on more than $332,374 in unclaimed bank accounts, insurance benefits, refund checks, and other monies.

"Financial institutions, insurance companies, and corporations are required to report bank accounts, contents of safe deposit boxes, wages, insurance benefits, security deposits, stock dividends, and other funds to our office if they remain unclaimed for five years or more," said Comptroller Goldstein. "Our office has records on approximately 265,000 accounts worth more than $92 million that have been reported to us over the past 30 years. Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no time limit under which the property or its monetary equivalent may be claimed. You or your legitimate heirs may claim the funds at any time."

The unclaimed property booth is just one of the many ways in which the Comptroller's Office attempts to locate rightful owners.

The 117th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, 4-H and home arts exhibits, runs from Saturday, Aug. 29 through Monday, Sept. 7, at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

Nolans Sweep Kimberton Holstein Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — Even dairy maids can't be everywhere at once.

Because of the responsibilities of attending a county dairy maid seminar, the grand champion of the youth portion of the Holstein Show at Kimberton Fair late last week couldn't attend to accept her ribbon.

So brother Craig stepped in.

Trouble was, Craig won reserve. So brother Kevin stepped in to cover Craig.

In the end, the ribbons got distributed to the right people at last week's Kimberton Fair dairy shows.

Rebecca, 13, is the daughter of Robert and Sharon Nolan, Cochranville. The Octorara Junior High School 8th grader picked up her first grand championship of the Holstein show, according to her mother, Sharon.

Craig showed Donna, a senior 2-year-old who tests at 19,000 pounds and is close to 24,000, according to Sharon Nolan. For Craig, Kevin was showing Princess, a 3-year-old. Both aren't classified. Craig, 20, is herd manager of a 120-cow farm owned by Kevin Graber, Oley.

The Nolans milk about 70 registered Holsteins in Cochranville.

At the junior show, 4-H winner was Brad Guest, 9, son of Stan and Cathy Guest, Pottstown. The 4th grader at Warwick showed a junior calf. Reserve went to David Smith, of W.B. Saul High School, with an intermediate calf.

In the open show, grand champion went to Delaware Valley College with a 4-year-old. Reserve also went to the college with a 3-year-old.

In all, there were a total of 30 exhibitors at the Friday evening show. There were 62 head of Holstein and 17 head of Guernseys. Judge was Christine Williams, Tulpehocken ag science and biology instructor, Lebanon.

Winners Named At West Central Youth Show

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Approximately 300 4-H and FFA dairy project animals were shown at the recent West Central regional dairy show, making it a difficult task for judges to select winners in each of the six breeds.

Holstein type judge Creedin Corman tapped Pyma-View Starburst, a junior three-year-old belonging to Megan E. DeHart of Evans City in Butler County for grand champion honors in that breed. Reserve grand champion went to Jennifer Cooper's aged cow Winding-Trail Pepper-Red, which was also named best owned and bred. Cooper is from Slippery Rock in Lawrence County.

JAR-AM-Hills Airliner Bell, a winter yearling owned and shown by Beckie A. Ruffaner of Worthington, Armstrong County was named junior champion Holstein. Reserve junior champion went to Jason A. Ruffaner, also of Worthington, and his heifer L&J Jolt Bridget, a summer yearling.

The grand champion Guernsey was Twin Brook Perfect Bonnie, a senior three-year-old, owned by Adam Michael McMurry of Eighty-Four, Washington County. McMurry also had the junior champion a winter calf named Larks Lucille.

The reserve grand champion Guernsey honors went to Amy Sue Liggett, Bessemer, Lawrence County, with Level Square Perfecto Roseann, a junior three. Travis Trotter of Enon Valley in Lawrence County showed the Guernsey junior champion Trotacre Blaine Lucille, a fall calf.

Hi-Lander Acres Flipper owned by Jacob Houser, Templeton, Armstrong County was named junior champion Brown Swiss. Lacey Zakostelecky, the Crawford County Dairy Princess, of Springboro walked away with reserve junior champion honors on her intermediate calf, Gerber Prophet Doll Jackie.

Siblings Stephanie and Timothy Lackey of Clarks Mills, Mercer County captured junior and reserve junior champion honors re-

Make Sure Bulls Pass Breeding Test

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The potential economic consequences of a beef producer who tries to breed cattle with an infertile bull are huge, said Doug Shaw, Ohio State University Extension veterinarian.

A bull Breeding Soundness Examination, or BSE, can help ensure a successful breeding season by discovering bulls that have poor breeding potential and improving reproductive efficiency between bulls and cows.

Veterinarians may charge $40 to $100 to do a BSE, depending on how far they have to drive and how much they do. That may sound like a lot of money, but it could save a producer thousands of dollars, Shaw said.

For example, if a marginally fertile bull only breeds 30 of 50 cows during a breeding season, the producer loses the potential earnings from 20 feeder calves. If the 20 lost calves had eventually sold for about $400 each, the producer could have earned an additional $8,000 in gross income.

"Every cow should have a calf every year for a producer to be profitable in the cattle industry," Shaw said. "If a BSE helps save just one calf, it will cover its cost. So a BSE is certainly cost effective, even at the high end of the cost range."

There are three parts to a BSE. First, the veterinarian does a physical exam of the bull to see if it is physically capable of breeding a cow. Foot, leg, eye or other body condition problems could lower a bull's breeding potential, Shaw said.

Second, semen is collected and evaluated. Bulls with low sperm counts or high percentages of abnormal sperm could have trouble getting cows pregnant, he said.

Third, the circumference of the scrotum is measured. The larger a bull's testes, the more semen it will produce. And, female calves produced by bulls with larger testes tend to mature faster.

"Scrotal circumference will vary with age and by breed, so producers need to know for each breed what is an appropriate size of testes for the age of the bull," Shaw said.

The missing link in a BSE is that it shows a bull has the physical potential to breed cows, but it doesn't prove a bull is socially and mentally capable, he said. Although rare, some bulls may have a poor sex drive or show aggressive or antisocial behavior that keeps them from breeding cows.

Producers should have a BSE done before buying a bull to be sure it is fertile. Young bulls just reaching maturity should be tested before being put with cows. Young bulls have lower semen production anyway, so they've got two strikes against them if a problem is revealed by a BSE, Shaw said. Approximately 11 percent of young bulls are either sterile or subfertile at 12 months to 14 months of age.

"If a bull produced a good calf crop last year, most producers won't think about having a BSE done before breeding this year, but bulls should be tested each year prior to breeding season," he said.

Breeding Soundness Examinations show that 4 percent of proven bulls develop fertility problems between breeding seasons. Heat stress during the summer can cause infertility, or severe frostbite in the winter can damage the scrotum.

A BSE also should be done after a bull has been sick. Any infectious disease that causes fever, such as pneumonia, can reduce sperm quality, so it's good to see if a bull is still properly producing semen after any illness, Shaw said.

Often bulls shouldn't be failed after their first test, especially if they are young. It's common to get a marginal or unsatisfactory semen sample from young bulls because they are not sexually competent yet, he said. Classification of young bulls as either satisfactory or unsatisfactory breeders should be delayed three to four weeks until a second semen sample can be taken, especially if there were any problems taking the first sample.

Classification also should be delayed if a bull recently has been sick. It can take two to three months for sperm cells damaged by sickness to return to normal.

"In reality, a truly sterile bull is rare, so we don't see many real disasters with breeding," Shaw said. "It's more common to find that a bull was subfertile and couldn't produce enough semen to get all the cows bred in the defined breeding season."

In Ohio, there are many beef producers with only 10 ro 20 cows and one bull, and it may be difficult for them to justify having a BSE done. To make more efficient use of the veterinarian's time and make the examinations cheaper by splitting the veterinarian's travel costs, several producers in an area could bring their bulls to one site and have a BSE done to all the bulls at once, Shaw said. The only potential downside to this would be the possibility of spreading disease among the animals if one bull was sick.

For more information about Breeding Soundness Examinations, interested producers should call their local veterinarian or Ohio State University Extension Veterinary Medicine at (614) 292-9453.

Agricultural Societies Re-Elect Two Penn State Trustees

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Agricultural society delegates from throughout Pennsylvania recently re-elected two members to Penn State's board of trustees.

Representatives of local Grange chapters, farm bureaus, county fair boards, and other county-based organizations returned former state Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff of Dauphin County and Sen. Roger A. Madigan of Bradford County to the university's governing board for three-year terms that begin July 1 and end in 2001.

Agricultural societies elect six members of Penn State's 32-member board of trustees for staggered three-year terms. Other current trustees elected by agricultural delegates, with term expiration in parentheses, are Gordon L. Hiller (1999), former master, Pennsylvania State Grange; David A. Morrow (1999), consulting veterinarian and owner-manager, Arch Spring Farm; Carl T. Shaffer (2000), vice president, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; and Obie Snider (2000), managing partner, Singing Brook Farms.

Wolff received his bachelor's degree in dairy husbandry from Penn State in 1953. For the next 33 years, he owned and operated Wolfden Farm, a 410-acre dairy farm in Westmoreland County. He served as Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture from January 1987 to January 1995.

Wolff has been active in various agricultural, community, religious, and political organizations. In recognition of his many leadership and service activities, he has received numerous awards from agricultural organizations throughout Pennsylvania. He was named a distinguished alumnus by Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science in 1988, was inducted into Gamma Sigma Delta in 1989, and received the Friend of Extension Award from Epsilon Sigma Phi in 1994. In 1995, the National FFA organization awarded Wolff the Honorary American Farmer Degree.

Wolff has held office in the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, the Northeastern State Departments of Agriculture, and the Eastern United States Food and Export Council. He was appointed to the Pennsylvania Ethics Commission in 1995 and has served as a VOCA volunteer in Venezuela and Russia.

Elected to the board of trustees by the delegates from agricultural societies in May 1984, Wolff served as an ex officio trustee while secretary of agriculture from 1987 to 1995. He was elected again by the delegates from agricultural societies in May 1995.

Madigan, who earned his bachelor's degree in dairy production from Penn State in 1951, was a dairyman from 1951 to 1964 and operates a 26-acre crop and certified tree farm near Towanda. He served as state representative in the General Assembly from the 110th District from 1977 to 1984, when he was elected to the state Senate representing the 23rd District.

Madigan is chairman of the Joint State Government Commission, as well as the Senate Environmental Resources and Energy Committee. He is vice chairman of the Senate Game and Fisheries Committee and a member of the Senate agriculture and rural affairs, appropriations, and labor and industries committees. He also is a member of the Joint Legislative Air and Water Pollution Control and Conservation Committee.

Madigan has won numerous awards and has been honored as "Legislator of the Year" by several trade and professional associations. In 1995, he was named a distinguished alumnus by Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Madigan is a trustee of the Guthrie Medical Center in Sayre and a member of The Milton S. Hershey Medical Center Board of Visitors. In May 1998, he was elected by Penn State's board of trustees as a director of the Agricultural Law Resource and Reference Center of the Dickinson School of Law.

In 1979, Madigan was appointed to serve on the board of trustees to fill an unexpired term ending in 1980.

Timmy Lacky also showed his senior three-year-old Conny Burn ALI Harmony to reserve grand champion. The grand champion Irishtowns Dunker Olie belonger to Kim Yeager, Greenville, Mercer County. Kim's champion was a senior two. The best owned and bred Jersey was Jem Specialist Polly Poppy, a five-year-old, shown by Joy Ellen McConnell.

Lane Whiting of Edinburg, Lawrence County, showed her senior two-year-old Milking Shorthorn, Designer Gene's Bratts Roxy, to grand champion honors in that breed. Reserve grand champion went to Tom Reiser, Cranesville, Erie County, with his junior three-year-old GWR Big Red Specklie.

Donna Grace Philson of Mercer, Mercer County, showed Honey Creek Milli, a fall yearling to the junior champion honors. Reserve junior champion Milking Shorthorn went to Jessica M. Whiting, Edinburg, with her spring yearling Summit Vista Mt. Dew. Best animal bred and owned went to Rachel Anne Kline, Mars, Butler County, for her six-year-old, Mandy's Monica-Exp. Kline also showed the best owned and bred Ayrshire a fall calf named Kline Farm Dazzle.

The first and second place senior three-year-old Ayrshires, belonging to siblings Elaina and John Rader, Connoquenessing, Butler County, were named grand champion and reserve grand champion. Elaina's Homestead-Acres Cstar Stormy and John's Homestead-Acres Cstar Superior received the champion and reserve honors respectively.

Entry number 294, Toll-Gate-Ayr Sunny Sue, a winter yearling shown by Heather Irene Bauder was selected as junior champion Ayrshire. Reserve junior champion went to Bobbi Jo Bauder with her spring yearling, Toll-Gate-Ayr Molly May.

The judges for the event were Creedin Corman, who placed the Holsteins, Guernseys, and Ayrshires and Chad Dechow From Penn State University. Dechow was responsible for selecting the winners in the Brown Swiss, Jersey, and Milking Shorthorn breeds.

Adam McMurry has the grand champion Guernsey. Beckie Ruffaner, Armstrong County dairy princess presents the award.

Jason Kennedy has the grand champion Brown Swiss.

The Elizabethtown Fair
25 Years of Making Memories

A child's first taste of cotton candy . . . the wonderment of a newborn calf . . . the pride of a blue-ribbon entry — the Elizabethtown Fairgrounds has seen it all.

The roofs of the Elizabethtown Fair go back to 1950 when the Elizabethtown Kiwanis Club hosted the first community Farm Fair. This event was first held in September 1950 along Poplar Street (with the midway behind the current Elizabethtown Community Center). Booths were located on a lot at the corner of Bainbridge and South Poplar streets.

In 1954 the Kiwanis Club relocated the farm fair across from Lake Placida at Elizabethtown College. This property became known as Kiwanis Park. An office, public restrooms, and a large exhibit building were added to Kiwanis Park.

Due to dwindling support and community interest, the Kiwanis Club replaced its farm fair with a carnival and pet parade in 1961. The event vanished completely sometime in the 1960s.

In the 1970s the fair was "reborn" as an added attraction to the Elizabethtown Jaycees Festival held in the Elizabethtown Community Park. As a result, the present fair was organized by the Jaycees in 1973 and operated under the name "Marketplace Fair."

In 1978, the event officially became known as the Elizabethtown Fair, and moved to the old Kiwanis Park grounds, which had become part of the Elizabethtown College campus. Under the leadership of the Jaycees, the fair continued to grow and the club decided an area was needed for just the agricultural portion of the fair. Elizabethtown Area School District's "land lab," the current site of the Elizabethtown Fair, was selected for the agricultural exhibits. In 1981 the fair activities were split between the Kiwanis Park grounds and the current fairgrounds.

In 1981 Agricultural Hall was opened on the new site and the Jaycees ran the first livestock competition on the current fairgrounds. In the same year the Elizabethtown Fair Association Ad Hoc Committee was formed and assumed the Jaycee duties. At this time, the fair was incorporated as the Elizabethtown Community Fair, Inc. and a board of directors and officers were elected.

Many changes have taken place at the fair since that time. The dairy-beef barn was erected on the fairgrounds in 1983, and Sara Myer Hall in 1985. The main stage was built in 1988 to showcase the live bands and entertainers. The fair office building was renovated in 1989. A large commercial building was constructed adjacent to Myer Hall in 1995.

Under the current direction of the Elizabethtown Fair board of directors, the Elizabethtown Fair remains a permanent, prosperous community event which features many of the original events and contests held at the first fair in 1950. The Elizabethtown Fair now runs Monday through Saturday in late August each year.

This year, the Fair is scheduled Aug. 24-29 10 a.m.-10 p.m. with livestock shows, a midway, and plenty of food and fun.

PASA Sponsors 'Grazing for Profit' Field Day

FAYETTEVILLE (Franklin Co.) — Two Franklin County grazing operations will be the focus of an all-day farm field day August 13.

The field day is sponsored by Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and the Franklin County Graziers.

According to Titus Martin a dairy grazier and facilitator of the Franklin County group. "This field day presents an excellent opportunity to see how some producers are managing their resources for lower costs and higher returns. We are glad to be working with PASA on this educational effort."

The first stop on the tour will be the dairy operation of Ken Schoenberg beginning at 9:30. The Schoenbergs milk 100 cows in a grass-based system, with 160 acres of their 320-acre farm in pasture and hay. The milking stock feed on pasture during the season and are fed wheat, alfalfa, and hay balage and corn silage during the winter. The Schoenbergs raise all their heifers and dry cows totally on grass. The field day will also explore how they utilize contour strip cropping and cropland terraces. They graze rye, orchardgrass, and ladino clover on hillsides.

In recent years the Schoenbergs have moved from silage to balage as it complements the grazing program better, requires less labor, and less machinery. They are using a round baler with a roto-cut and grind the bales in their TMR mixer for winter feeding. Schoenbergs utilize a flush manure system with a separator using the waste water to irrigate pasture and increase yields.

At 1 p.m. the tour will move to Thistle Glen Farm operated by David Rutherford and Carole Malin. Rutherford and Malin raise Highland beef cattle in a low-cost, grass-based system for direct-to-consumer sales. During the tour of their farm they will discuss.

- Why they chose to become a grass-based operation and how they are "importing grass to the dinner plate."
- How two "non-farm" people have become full-time farmers.
- How they add value to their product by retaining ownership all the way to the consumer's plate.

In addition to a walking tour of the farm and an opportunity to "get up close and personal" with the Highlanders, David and Carole have invited several allied business to discuss their role in supporting this beef business. Their vet will talk about his role in a grass-based system and how it differs from conventional systems. In addition, a local chef who buys their beef will discuss changes he has made to accommodate local beef while benefiting his business. A local processor will describe how he has changed his business to process direct-marketed beef for the producers.

David and Carole will also discuss the designing of a label for secondary sales in order to broaden their focus of value-added marketing.

Call PASA at (814) 349-9856 for more information and directions.

4-H Fair Aug. 13-15

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Are you looking for some great family fun at a low price? Come to the Montgomery County 4-H Fair at the 4-H Center on Route 113 between Routes 73 and 29, near Skippack.

The Fair will be Thursday, Aug. 13 through Saturday, Aug. 15. The fair is open to the public on Thursday from 5 p.m.-9:30 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A parking donation of $3 is requested to benefit the 4-H program. There are no other admission fees. You won't find commercial rides here, but good old wholesome fun — animal shows, exhibits of completed 4-H projects, bands, gamebooths run by the 4-H'ers themselves, and hands-on, get-involved fun.

On Thursday evening, opening ceremonies and the banner parade begin at 6 p.m. followed by the Sheep Show at 6:30 p.m. The Daisy Jug Band will make its annual appearance from 6:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Other highlights of opening night include a Horse Gymkhana, 4-H member recognition, as well as the introduction of the Outstanding 4-H Members and Scholarship presentations.

The giant Fabric Sale returns for extended hours, beginning from 6 p.m.-8 p.m. on Thursday. Indoor exhibits include crafts, foods, vegetables, flowers, woodworking, clothing and a wide variety of 4-H and open class entries. The indoor exhibits are open until 9:30 p.m.

New this year will be a plant diagnostic clinic from 6 p.m.-8 p.m. at the new Horticultural Center, inside the building. The public is invited to bring plants or vegetables with problems to be identified by the fair's horticulturalists.

For more information and a more detailed schedule call the 4-H Office at (610) 489-4315.

ROTO-MIX NEW ROUND BALE CUTTER

by J-star

The Fast easy way to cut round bales.

- Double sickle bar provides faster cutting
- Big enough to handle the large 5½' x 6' bales
- Shorter lengths and smaller pieces for easier feeding

- Reduces wind loss which occurs from grinding of shredding
- Bale forks pivot up automatically when needed to open bale for easier and through cutting

Roto-Mix Feed Mixers Available

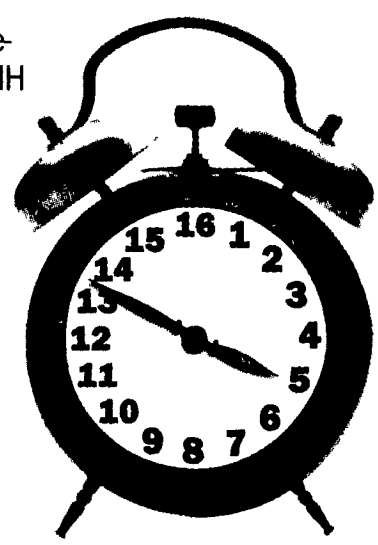
ITS LIKE HAVING EXTRA HOURS EACH DAY.

A Case-IH Axial Flow Combine from Hoober, Inc. gives a farmer the most precious commodity of all during harvest season... time. That's because Case-IH combines have a unique rotor design which enables you to harvest in wet conditions... so you harvest longer each day. Dew in the field keeps conventional combines in the barn because a combine with straw walkers can't handle wet conditions. And, more hours in the field each day, for the entire harvesting season, means greater productivity and profit for you.



WHY HOOBER... (3 BIG REASONS)

1. Since Hoober, Inc. sells the most combines, we can offer the best finance deals.
2. Our staff has the knowledge to put you in a Case-IH combine that's right for your size operation and can customize your new combine to your crop and field conditions.
3. Hoober's revolutionary UPTIME SERVICE concept ensures peak efficiency for years to come.

Visit Hoober, Inc. and get the best combine in the business backed by the best support team in the business.

WIDER IS NOT BETTER

Krause 3948 Profile

Road Width: 11' 6" Road Height: 10' 8"
Field Performance: #1
Dealer: Hoober, Inc.

When it comes to transporting your disc harrow, wider is definitely not better. With a road width of only 11' 6", the Krause 3948 ROCKFLEX Disc Harrow makes transportation easy. And when it comes to performance in the field, the Krause 3948 is unbeatable. Utilizing Krause's Rock-Flex technology, no other disc in its class can cut and finish a field better than the 3948 . . . regardless of the conditions.

And when it comes to making sure your Krause 3948 will keep on performing in the years to come, no one else compares to Hoober, Inc. Hoober has the parts inventory, experienced service technicians and know-how to guarantee peak performance.

Dear M.M. Weaver & Sons:

1997 marked my 5th year custom harvesting. I chopped over 1,500 acres of hay and 1,800 acres of corn.

I appreciate the versatility of the 860 Claas which enabled me to chop 3rd cutting hay on one client's farm in the morning and easily switch to chopping corn on another farm that afternoon. A large fuel capacity, auto-lube system and blade sharpening from the cab conserve energy and time, precious commodities in seasonal work where every minute counts.

The RU 450 is a time-saving asset where the conservation practice of strip farming is necessary due to the hilly terrain. It would have been impossible to cover as many acres as quickly with a conventional cornhead.

The 860 Claas proves to be a totally reliable machine backed up by the efficient service, technical support, and dedicated personnel that you provide.

I thank you for the important part you have in my growing custom harvesting business.

Jerry Spencer

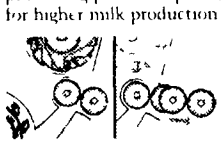
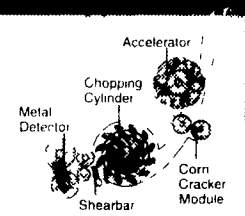
Maximum Power For Your Success

Get a beast of a deal on a new CLASS Jaguar
See your CLASS dealer for details.

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay. The Jaguar's efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production





The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8-blade accelerator

The unique top-to-back cooling system with rotary air screen assures excellent, clean cooling

Service is easy because compartment covers quickly swing open to provide easy access to the engine and cooling system

The operator can safely sharpen the chopping knives and precisely adjust the shearbar from the driver's seat automatically

Signature DEALER

Your 21st Century Customer-Driven Dealer

Lancaster County's NEWEST SKID LOADER DEALER

Although we have just begun marketing new John Deere Skid Steer Loaders, these products are not strangers to us. We began selling and servicing skid steers in 1973. Now, we are pleased to offer a complete line of John Deere Skid Steers and Attachments for the agricultural and commercial customer. Call today and ask for Jerry Barger.

A Power To Reckon With

John Deere skid steers are powered by John Deere diesel engines. And that means better overall performance, quiet operation, and unsurpassed reliability.

Largest Selection of Quality Farm Equipment In The East

Mow and condition worry-free

It's easy with the "1411" Discbine® disc mower-conditioner The "1411" gives you the perfect combination of mowing reliability, conditioning quality and no-hassles servicing.

- Independent modular cutterbar – eight disc modules are sealed in their own oil and connected by independent drive shafts for easy maintenance or repair
- 200 hours between disc gearbox oil changes – twice as long as most other models
- Mows through thick, tangled and wet crops
- Plug-free performance – no stopping or raising the header for slugs

Give yourself some peace of mind with the Model 1411 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner.

Riparian Buffer Systems Training Program Offered To Managers

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Maryland resource managers can improve their riparian buffer site assessment and management options skills at a training program offered by Maryland Cooperative Extension with funding from the Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Program.

The two-day program for foresters, wildlife biologists, Extension educators, engineers, planners and others who work with landowners and communities is Sept. 30 - Oct. 1 at the Wye Research and Education Center near Queenstown, Md. It will coincide with training programs occurring in 14 other states.

"We taught a training session on riparian buffer systems in Maryland last year that was so successful that we received requests for training from around the country," said Robert Tjaden, regional natural resources specialist with Maryland Cooperative Extension. "This program is designed to meet an obviously widespread need for information."

To meet the needs of audiences in all states simultaneously, four hours of core training sessions will be delivered via satellite from the University of Maryland, College Park, on the first morning. These sessions will focus on the basic structure and ecology of riparian forest buffers and will feature experts from various federal and state agencies and universities nationwide. They will be followed by on-site instruction that addresses local concerns, such as selection of appropriate plant material and wildlife habitat considerations.

The second day of the training program will involve application of site assessment techniques in both urban and rural settings. Participants will work as teams to solve case studies.

Registration is required by Sept. 15. The $50 fee includes lunches and a three-ring binder of resource materials, including a new USDA Forest Service technical manual on riparian forest buffers, research reports, fact sheets, specifications for planting warm and cool season grasses, and other materials.

For more information or a brochure and registration form, call Robert Tjaden or Julia Klapproth at (410) 827-8056.

Western Horses Tops In Pleasure

NEW LONDON (Chester Co.) — The Triangle Series Horse Shows are among the few shows that encourage western riders to compete against hunters in pleasure classes. On Sunday, July 12, at Grazing Acres, western horses not only competed but conquered.

Imperial Mandan, the western champion, and Country Velvet, the reserve champion in the western division, went on to take the champion and reserve awards, respectively, in the pleasure division. (Since cash prizes are presented in pleasure, this is always a good division in which to win.) Tammy Wood and Barbara Stanley of Nottingham shared Imperial Mandan. Country Velvet was ridden by Janet Johnson of Coatesville.

"Three farms comprise the "triangle" — Grazing Acres Farm in New London, KA Equestrian Center in Cochranville, and Fox Meadow in Unionville.)

Championships and reserves in each division are presented at each show, in addition to end-of-series high point awards.

Call any of the participating farms for information and/or prize lists for future shows: Grazing Acres: (610) 255-5009; KA Equestrian (610) 869-0746; Fox Meadow (610) 444-8805.

There were multiple twosomes at this show.

Sisters Andrea Heinzman and Lindsey Heinzman of Elkview dominated the mini stirrup division (for riders age 10 and under). Older sister Andrea was champion and younger sister Lindsey was reserve champion. The girls ride matched dark bay Arabians, Andrea on Quintessa, and Lindsey on SH Fallon.

Two girls with identical names, but different spellings, were also high point winners. Sara Schaefer of Saginaw Rd., Lincoln University, was the beginner over fences champion on Fudge. Sara Shaffer of West Grove rode Low Down Louie to a reserve hunter championship.

Halter champion on July 12 was Creme Brulee, shown by Lisa Thompson of Gap. Reserve champion was Weed Wacker, owned by David and Hope Woollens of Landenberg and shown by Hope Woollens.

Valerie Mahala of North Broad Street, Kennett Square, rode her hose, Slew of Dancers, to a baby green championship and the reserve championship in the low hunter division.

Joshua Dixon riding Majestic was the leadline champion. Reserve was Becky Mark of West Grove on SH Boston Cream.

Danielle Wasylyk of Harvest Drive, Cochranville, was champion of the mini mini division (for riders age eight or younger). Miss Wasylyk rides Little Rascal. Reserve in this division was Heather Frank, also from Cochranville, riding Amyr Granada.

Short stirrup champion was Jennifer Haines of Larkin Rd., Boothwyn, riding Sidekick. Reserve was Melissa Donahue of General Cornwallis Dr., West Chester, on One Last Trick.

Lauren Annett of New London was open equitation champion on Dance Flash. Sara Wilson of Coatesville was reserve champion in this division on Caserio Tsalturi.

Jessica Knox of Unionville rode Star to the low hunter championship. Hunter champion was Trick or Treat, ridden by Jamie Jacobie of Cold Springs Drive, Kennett Square.

Reserve champion in the beginner over fences division was Bethany Moore of Peachtree Lane, Landenberg, on Mardi Gras.

Reserve champion in the Baby Green division was Madam, shown by Holly Searles of North Guernsey Rd., West Grove.

Winners in individual classes follow:

Leadline Walk: 1. Joshua Dixon, 2. Becky Mark; 3 Ashley Reeser.

Advanced Leadline: 1. Danny Hettinger; 2. Joshua Dixon; 3. Ashley Reeser.

Off Leaders: 1. Becky Mark; 2. Ashley Reeser, 3. Joshua Dixon.

Mini Mini (8 & Under) Walk: 1. Danielle Wasylyk; 2. Melanie Williams; 3. Heather Frank.

Mini Mini Walk/Trot-Jog: Danielle Wasylyk, 2. Heather Frank; 3 Kelsey Sherman.

Mini Mini Walk/Trot-Jog/Back: 1 Heather Frank; 2. Danielle Wasylyk, 3. Kelsey Sherman.

Keystone Adds Staff In Lancaster County

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Bruce Miller, vice president of Keystone's Lancaster region, has announced the hiring of Eric Knutsen and Jay Shannon.

Knutsen has been hired as an executive loan officer and will service accounts from the Quarryville office. Shannon, who will service accounts from the Lancaster office, has also been hired as an executive loan officer.

Knutsen joins Keystone with seven years of Farm Credit experience, having worked previously for Central Maryland Farm Credit and Delaware Farm Credit. He grew up on a dairy farm in Rising Sun, Md., where he resides. He is a graduate of the University of Delaware where he majored in ag business with a concentration in finance. He is an active member of the state and national Holstein associations, 4-H Alumni and of St. Patrick's Church. He enjoys marketing registered Holsteins, woodworking, and country dancing.

Knutsen will be providing financial services to commercial farmers. His special interest is working with large and expanding dairy operations.

Shannon has 16 years of Farm Credit experience, having worked for Marva Farm Credit, Chesapeake Farm Credit, and Meadville PCA/FLBA. He grew up on his family's dairy farm in Mercer County, which is still in operation today. Shannon is a graduate of Penn State University with a degree in agronomy and lives in Landisville. He is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mt. Olivet United Methodist Church, The Ag Issues Forum, and Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Eric Knutsen

Jay Shannon

Shannon will be providing financing, leasing, and other financially related services to large farm operations and ag related businesses in Lancaster, Lebanon, and Dauphin counties.

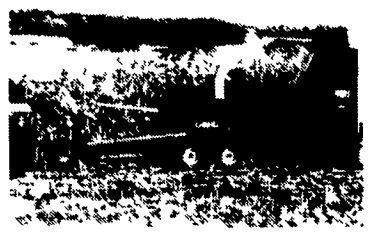
Pull-Type Crop Processing Forage Harvester Produces High-Quality Silage

WEST BEND, Wis. — Gehl has introduced a pull-type forage harvester with exclusive Crop Processor™ that produces high-quality silage in a single field operation.

Gehl Model 1275 forage harvester optimizes processing of kernels, cob, and stalk — resulting in improved milk or beef production through better feed digestion and utilization.

"In a single operation, the 1275 chops and processes corn silage with its two integral high-speed, 8½ -inch diameter rolls, which are similar to those used in roller mills," said Gehl Product Manager Jim Phillips. "The high-capacity 1275 does everything a self-propelled harvester can do in terms of processing corn but at a fraction of the initial cost."

Research studies have shown that processing corn silage greatly improves its digestibility and utilization. The new Gehl 1275 can be set to deliver a longer length of cut while still giving you the full advantage of thoroughly processed cobs and kernels, according to Phillips.



Gehl has introduced a pull-type forage harvester with exclusive Crop Processor™ that produces high-quality silage in a single field operation.

"Processed corn silage is more uniform in its makeup — the kernels are cracked, and there are no large chunks of corn cobs for your cows to sort or nose out," he said.

Maximizing the nutritional value of the silage is possible because the Model 1275's roll gap adjusts for various moisture contents to ensure that no kernels pass through uncracked, said Phillips. When the kernels are cracked, the rumen bacteria and intestinal enzymes can more easily unlock the available store of nutrients — resulting in better feed digestion and utilization.

"Some researchers have reported that feeding processed corn silage produced an additional two to four pounds of milk per cow per day," said Phillips.

Novartis Announces Investment In Ag Genomics

BASEL, Switzerland — The Novartis Research Foundation announced the planned investment of USD 600 million is in the next 10 years to fund one of the largest initiatives in plant genomics.

The first step will be the creation of the Novartis AGricultural Discovery Institute (NADI), which will be one of the largest single research endeavors dedicated to agricultural genomics research and development. Located in San Diego, Calif., the main campus of NADI will have a team of about 180 researchers headed by Steven P. Briggs, Ph.D. Additional investments will be announced this fall.

NADI will be a spearhead in Novartis' strategic focus on biotechnology research, maximizing cross-sector cooperation between crop protection and seeds, and working in tandem with the Novartis Agribusiness Biotech Research facility at Research Triangle Park, N.C., and with numerous Novartis research stations worldwide. The close proximity of NADI to the recently announced Novartis pharmaceuticals genomics institute (Novartis Institute for Functional Genomics), which is being built in La Jolla, Calif. will optimize cross-business synergies in genomics research in both agribusiness and in pharmaceuticals.

"We aim to create a powerful technology platform across all of our businesses. In the future, genomics will play an even more important role in our discovery programs. The institute will offer an exciting environment, fostering open scientific exchange with academic institutions, biotech companies, and other Novartis research centers for testing new ideas and concepts, and breaking new ground. This unique scientific network will generate a stream of innovative and highly competitive technologies and products," said Daniel Vasella, president of Novartis.

Agricultural genomics is the study of the location and function of groups of genes within crops and their pests. NADI will apply genomics to generate databases that match genes with traits, and will provide advanced technologies that can be used widely in agribusiness research for the development of gent-based products.

Steven Briggs, president of NADI, noted, "We will focus on identifying targets for seeds and plant protection. Our funding will allow us to have considerable scope and depth in our discovery efforts, with access to the most advanced research in the industry."

The new Institute will add to Novartis' substantial number of alliances with leading institutions and major universities in the U.S. and overseas. The project will provide a great professional opportunity for scientists in all areas of genomics and functional genomics relevant to agriculture, including gene library construction, sequencing, mapping, and bioinformatics. In a related initiative, Novartis recently announced a USD 3 million agreement with Clemson University targeted at mapping the genome of rice and its pathogens.

Case Reports Strong Second Quarter

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation reported operating earnings for the second quarter of $199 million and net income of $126 million or $1.61 per share.

These results, while below the record performance reported for the second quarter of 1997, were achieved despite one-time costs associated with the company's negotiations with the UAW and the company's previously announced sales delay of agricultural equipment to the Commonwealth of Independent States and surrounding countries.

In the prior year period, Case reported operating earnings of $211 million, and net income of $138 million or $1.75 per share.

Second-quarter revenues increased to $1.7 billion, up 8 percent from the second quarter of 1997, including double-digit sales growth in North America and Latin America, offset by continued lower sales in the Asia Pacific region.

Operating earnings for the second quarter were driven by continued cost reduction initiatives and equitable pricing. These were offset by $15 million in expenses and operating inefficiencies related to the company's negotiations with the UAW and by $14 million in unfavorable foreign exchange rates, due primarily to a 17 percent decline in the value of the Australian dollar. In adtition, the company reported substantially higher new-product launch expenses as compared to last year's second quarter.

For the first six months of 1998, net income was $195 million, compared with $202 million for the same period last year. Net income per share was $2.48, compared to $2.57 per share in the comparable period of 1997. Revenues for the first six months of 1998 were $3.1 billion, up 10 percent over the prior year. Operating earnings were $308 million for the first six months of 1998, compared with $314 million last year.

In the second quarter, Case announced an expanded focus for its financial services subsidiary by creating Case Capital Corporation, a broad-based financing company for the global marketplace. In addition, the company completed the acquisition of certain assets of the Tyler Industries division of IBOCO, Inc. Tyler is a designed, manufacturer and distributor of chemical and fertilizer sprayers and applicators.

Case also took steps during the quarter to keep its equipment inventories at below-industry averages.

Other significant developments during the quarter include the ratification by UAW-represented employees of a six-year contract between Case and the union. In addition to favorable economics, the new agreement provides the flexibility necessary to implement Case's manufacturing strategy, a key component of which is the new Case Production System.

Case Credit Corporation, a leading worldwide financial services provider for the equipment industry, announced net income of $18 million for the second quarter of 1998, up 6 percent from $17 million in the comparable period last year.

Revenues increased 33 percent over the prior year to a record $80 million. These improvements are attributed to higher financing income from strong growth in receivables and leases, partially offset by the impact of Case Credit's asset-management strategy.

For the first six months of 1998, revenues increased 24 percent over the prior year to $156 million. Net income for the period was $37 million, down 5 percent from $39 million in the prior year. Increases in financing income were more than offset by the impact of Case Credit's asset-management strategy and a higher tax rate during the first six months. Net income would have been flat versus the prior year, assuming a comparable tax rate for both periods.

Case Credit's serviced portfolio grew to a record $5.8 billion as of June 30, 1998. Financing originations increased 38 percent in the second quarter and 36 percent for the first six months, as compared to the prior year periods. Significantly higher financing of other manufacturers' equipment was one of the key drivers of this growth, representing 21 percent of total retail originations during the second quarter and 19 percent for the first six months.

Case Corporation announced in June that it intends to expand the focus of its financisl services business by creating Case Capital Corporation, a broad-based financing company for the global marketplace. Case Capital will include separate businesses that offer loans and leases for construction, agriculture and other industries; commercial lending within equipment industries; multiple lines of insurance products and private-label credit cards.

Maryland DHIA Report For June

The June Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

You've Never Seen A Harvest Like This.

Introducing The New 2300 Series Axial-Flow® Combines.

The three new 2300 Series combines are equipped with a high-visibility operator environment so revolutionary, everything else is history.

Wider, amazingly comfortable and designed with convenient cab-forward controls and instrumentation, this cab literally conforms to its occupant. An engineering landmark – Focalized Cab Mounting – minimizes motion for a smooth, steady ride. A multi-function propulsion lever puts most operations right in the palm of your hand. And an all-new right-hand console moves in tandem with your seat.

At the heart of the 2300 Series remains the strength of the Axial-Flow combine – the exclusive, patented rotor. And the recent addition of the Cross Flow™ cleaning fan provides a remarkably uniform, powerful airflow throughout the entire sieve area.

Why not stop by and see the new Case IH 2300 Series for yourself? We'll help you discover a better way of looking at your harvest.

If You're Not A Hoober Customer,

YOU'VE NEVER SEEN SERVICE LIKE HOOBER SERVICE!!!

WORKING HARDER Hoober's technicians earn your business every day with in-field combine repair. Hoober earns your business by carrying the largest supply of parts, and routinely gets parts quicker than the competition. When you're sitting during harvest time, you're losing money by the hour. Hoober works harder to get you back faster.

WORKING SMARTER Hoober's crew of combine technicians have been gaining experience for over 20 years. Hoober also invests in schooling at every opportunity, so no competitor has better trained technicians. Hoober also invented the Hoober-Boom, which is used for infield motor removal and has developed techniques that have surprised even the factory engineers. Hoober works smarter to get you back faster.

Taking Some Off The Top Is Great For Haircuts, But Bad For Trees

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Getting a bad haircut is just a temporary condition in which the hair grows back none the worse for wear. But removing the entire canopy of a tree — a practice called "topping" — has much more lasting and sometimes fatal consequences, according to an arborist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Topping trees is not pruning," said Bill Elmendorf, instructor and coordinator of the urban and community forest program in the School of Forest Resources. "It is indiscriminate, drastic cutting and a reduction in the tree's energy-producing factory — the canopy."

Elmendorf says cutting the central trunk and tops of main branches severely weakens a tree by removing both leaves and stored carbohydrates. Topping reduces a tree's ability to generate food and energy by photosynthesis.

"Topping is really the ultimate in tree abuse," Elmendorf said. "It's usually done by unqualified and unknowledgeable tree cutters. In some cases, qualified arborist top trees at the insistence of homeowners who don't understand the damage they are paying to have done to their tree."

Elmendorf lists several conditions caused by topping trees.

•Unsafe structure. Elmendorf said topping trees leaves large wounds that are open to decay and insects, ultimately weakening the tree's structure. "The tree also will develop 'water sprouts' which are weakly attached branches," he said.

•Decline in health. In addition to losing the leaves' ability to produce food, topping causes the tree to use valuable food store in the trunk to regrow limbs. Limb removal causes sunscald of the remaining limbs as well.

•Ugliness. "Topping destroys the tree's form and symmetry," Elmendorf said.

•Decline in value. Altering the shape, structure and health of the tree by topping means a large ornamental tree can lose thousands of dollars in value.

•More frequent utility pruning. "Water sprouts grow faster and more thickly," Elmendorf said. "That makes utility line clearance more difficult, more frequent, and more expensive."

According to Elmendorf, most homeowners top trees because they see other trees that have been topped, or they fear a large tree may blow over onto a house or garage." A topped tree with damaged and weakened structure is much more likely to blow over than a healthy tree," he said.

Elmendorf offers a few tips on avoiding the decision to top trees.

•Plant the right tree in the right place. "Don't plant large trees like oaks, tulip, poplars, and sycamores under power lines or near buildings and signs," Elmendorf said. "Choose smaller tree species for small area or sidewalk planting areas."

•Prune trees when they are young. "Trees should be pruned when they are three to five years old," Elmendorf recommends. "It promotes good structure, saves money, and causes small pruning wounds."

•Prune correctly. Elmendorf says all tree pruning should be in accordance with the maintenance guidelines of the International Society of Arboriculture. For more information about the society and its recommendations, call (217) 355-9411.

•Hire a qualified arborist. Elmendorf suggests getting three bids from local tree services. Be sure to contact references from the arborist's past work. Ask to see proof of liability insurance and worker's compensation insurance.

"Why pay for an inferior service that destroys your tree?" Elmendorf said. "Find a qualified arborist who knows proper and safe tree care techniques. In tree work, taking the lowest price isn't necessarily good. In some cases, you get what you pay for — destroyed trees."

Adding Value To Farm Products Field Day Topic

MENCH (Bedford Co.) — Adding value to pasture-raised sheep and poultry products will be highlighted at an Aug. 14 field day at the Willow Springs Farm of Kate and Dale Thomsen in Bedford County.

The field is sponsored by Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and will begin at 1 p.m.

Willow Springs Farm is a grass-based sheep, dairy, market lamb, and pastured poultry family farm outside of Everett. Kate and Dale began farming on this 83-acre farm in 1988 and began the sheep dairy in 1996. They raise 85 ewes, 30 feeding only pasture and hay. The Thomsens also grow 500-700 chickens totally on pasture. Chicken manure is the sole source of pasture fertilization.

The field day will look at the integration of this diversified, holistic system which features value-added direct market strategies. They have the sheep milk processed into cheese which is sold locally, in Pittsburgh, and on the Internet. The poultry and lamb is processed at a local butcher and sold locally along with the eggs produced.

The field day will also focus on the pasture system, including fencing and low-cost watering equipment. There will also be an opportunity tour the milking parlor and observe the afternoon milking.

The Thomsens are a fine example of integrating agriculture and community, according to PASA Executive Director Tim Bowser: "They put meaning into local agriculture by emphasizing local sales and community connections. They insist on supporting local businesses such as their butcher, and invite their customers to come to the farm anytime to see how they produce their animals. It is a great alternative for people who want to know where their food comes from."

Directions to Willow Springs Farm: Everett is located on Rt. 30 and Rt. 26 adjacent to the turnpike. From downtown Everett, head south on Rt. 26. Take the first left, soon after passing under the turnpike, at sign stating Mench "3 miles." In Mench turn left at the four-way. Farm lane is two miles on left. Look for signs.

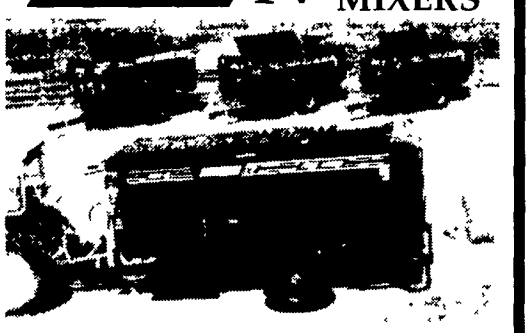
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS



With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

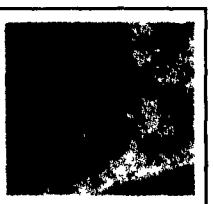
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

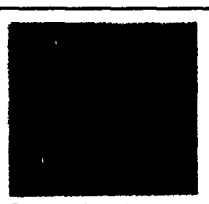
RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

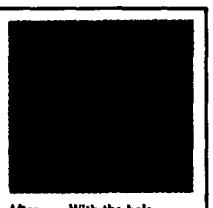


After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed.

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface



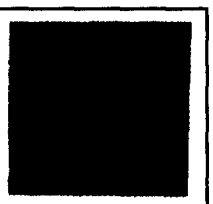
Before . A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

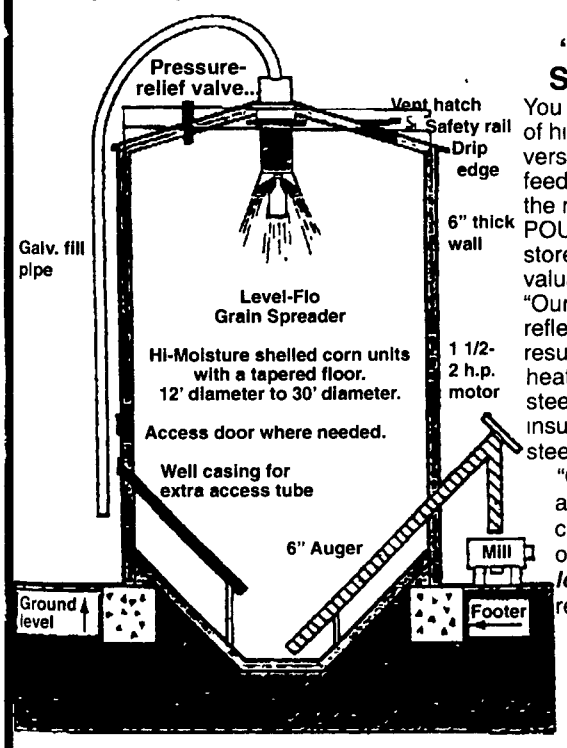
HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN SILO WITH HOPPER FLOOR



"Hi-Moisture Shelled Corn"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to prefab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

Cleanest waterer ever invented!

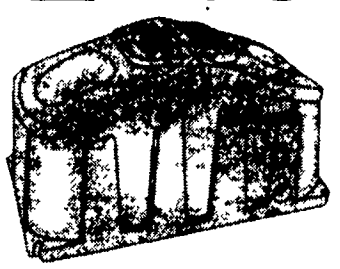
Self-cleaning
The JUG is designed so that debris and feed are sucked up from the feed trap in the bowl with each watering, debris won't foul the water

Low-maintenance
Light-tight design so that algae and odors won't build-up in the JUG's interior

Animals adapt easily
The JUG is designed so that animals, even calves, can suck water naturally, no balls or flaps to get in the way

The JUG is manufactured by Edstrom Industries which has 25 years experience designing watering devices for animals

The JUG



Choose 1, 2 or 4 bowl, energy-free, or energy-efficient models.
Meets requirements for dairy approval.

EBY BUILDS IT

M H Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value

Eby products have superior standard features And we offer customer options for virtually any application Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.
